FOREWORD

Sharing . . .

What is sharing?

Life is sharing.

Living—working and talking with one another, giving of one's self—

That is sharing.

But more—

Learning and passing on knowledge to others, making friends, striving for mutual goals.

School is sharing . . .

Learning, communicating, participating.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Mr. Cornelius T. McMahon
Department of Physics
Business Manager of Athletics
September 11, 1908 – November 6, 1965

IN MEMORIAM

To live in hearts we leave behind
Is not to die.

Henry Clay

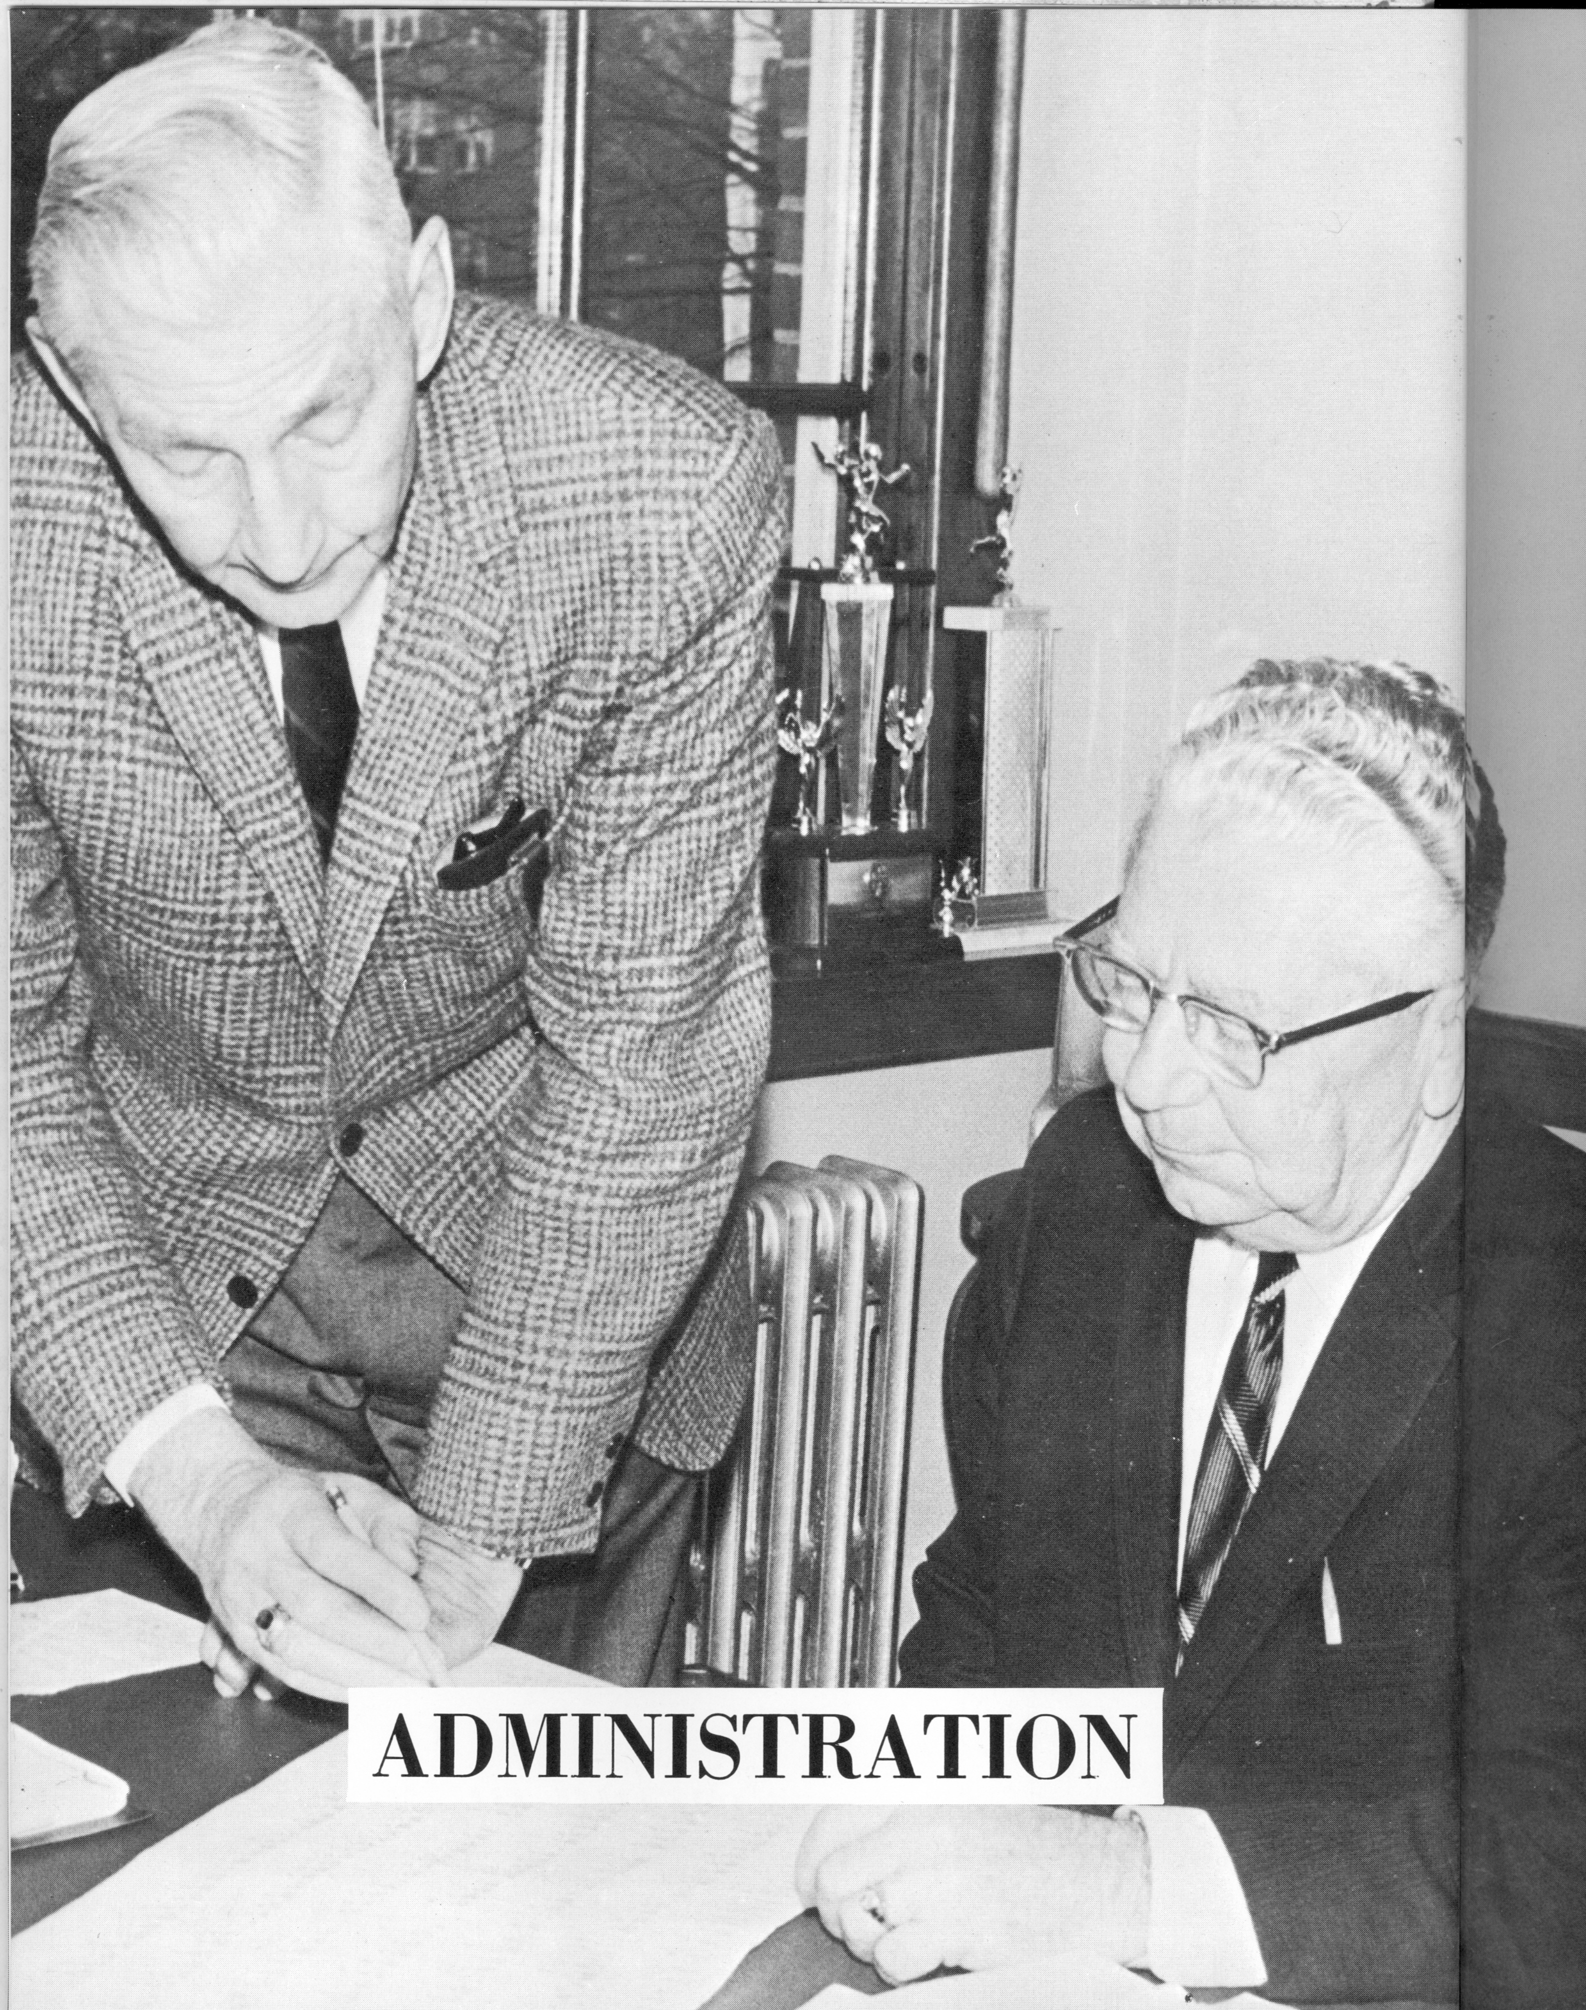

Service is no little thing, and Mr. McMahon served well in many ways—as father, colleague, and teacher. In each capacity he will be missed.

Teachers and administrators who knew him as colleague and friend; coaches, players, and fans who knew him as Manager of Athletics; and we who studied under him in science class will remember his quick but gentle sense of humor, his kindness, and his genuine understanding. Our lives are the better for having known him.

In Mr. McMahon's memory we shared a moment of silence before every home game.

ADMINISTRATION

...sharing authority

Able administrators share

As chief administrator of Pittsfield High School, Principal Harold E. Hennessy shoulders the burdens of running smoothly the city's largest educational facility. When a school intended for fifteen hundred students can function so well with over two thousand in its corridors, due credit must be given to the man at the top.

Throughout the day he is confronted with a myriad of problems which keep him at his desk long after school has officially closed. Despite his administrative duties he always has time for friendly—and, when necessary, firm—guidance for any student who needs him. His support of all school activities is unflagging and his loyalty surely has earned him the title of "Pittsfield High School's greatest fan."

Taking a respite from his busy schedule, Mr. Hennessy looks out over the mall.

burden of crowded school

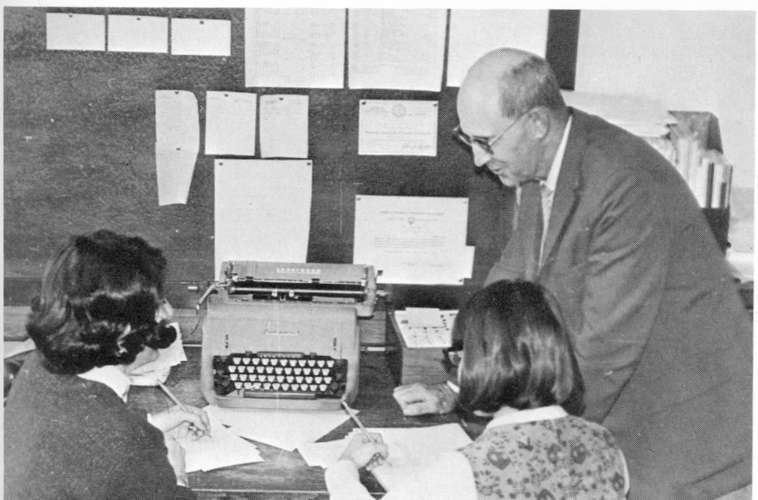

Mr. Daniel J. Donoghue, Assistant Director, and Mr. William L. Dehey, Director of Vocational, examine a student's work report.

Five able administrators assist Mr. Hennessy in running P. H. S. These people are in charge of various duties ranging from disciplining and advising students to recruiting substitute teachers, supervising lockers, and doing the hundreds of other tasks, large and small, which make for a well-run school.

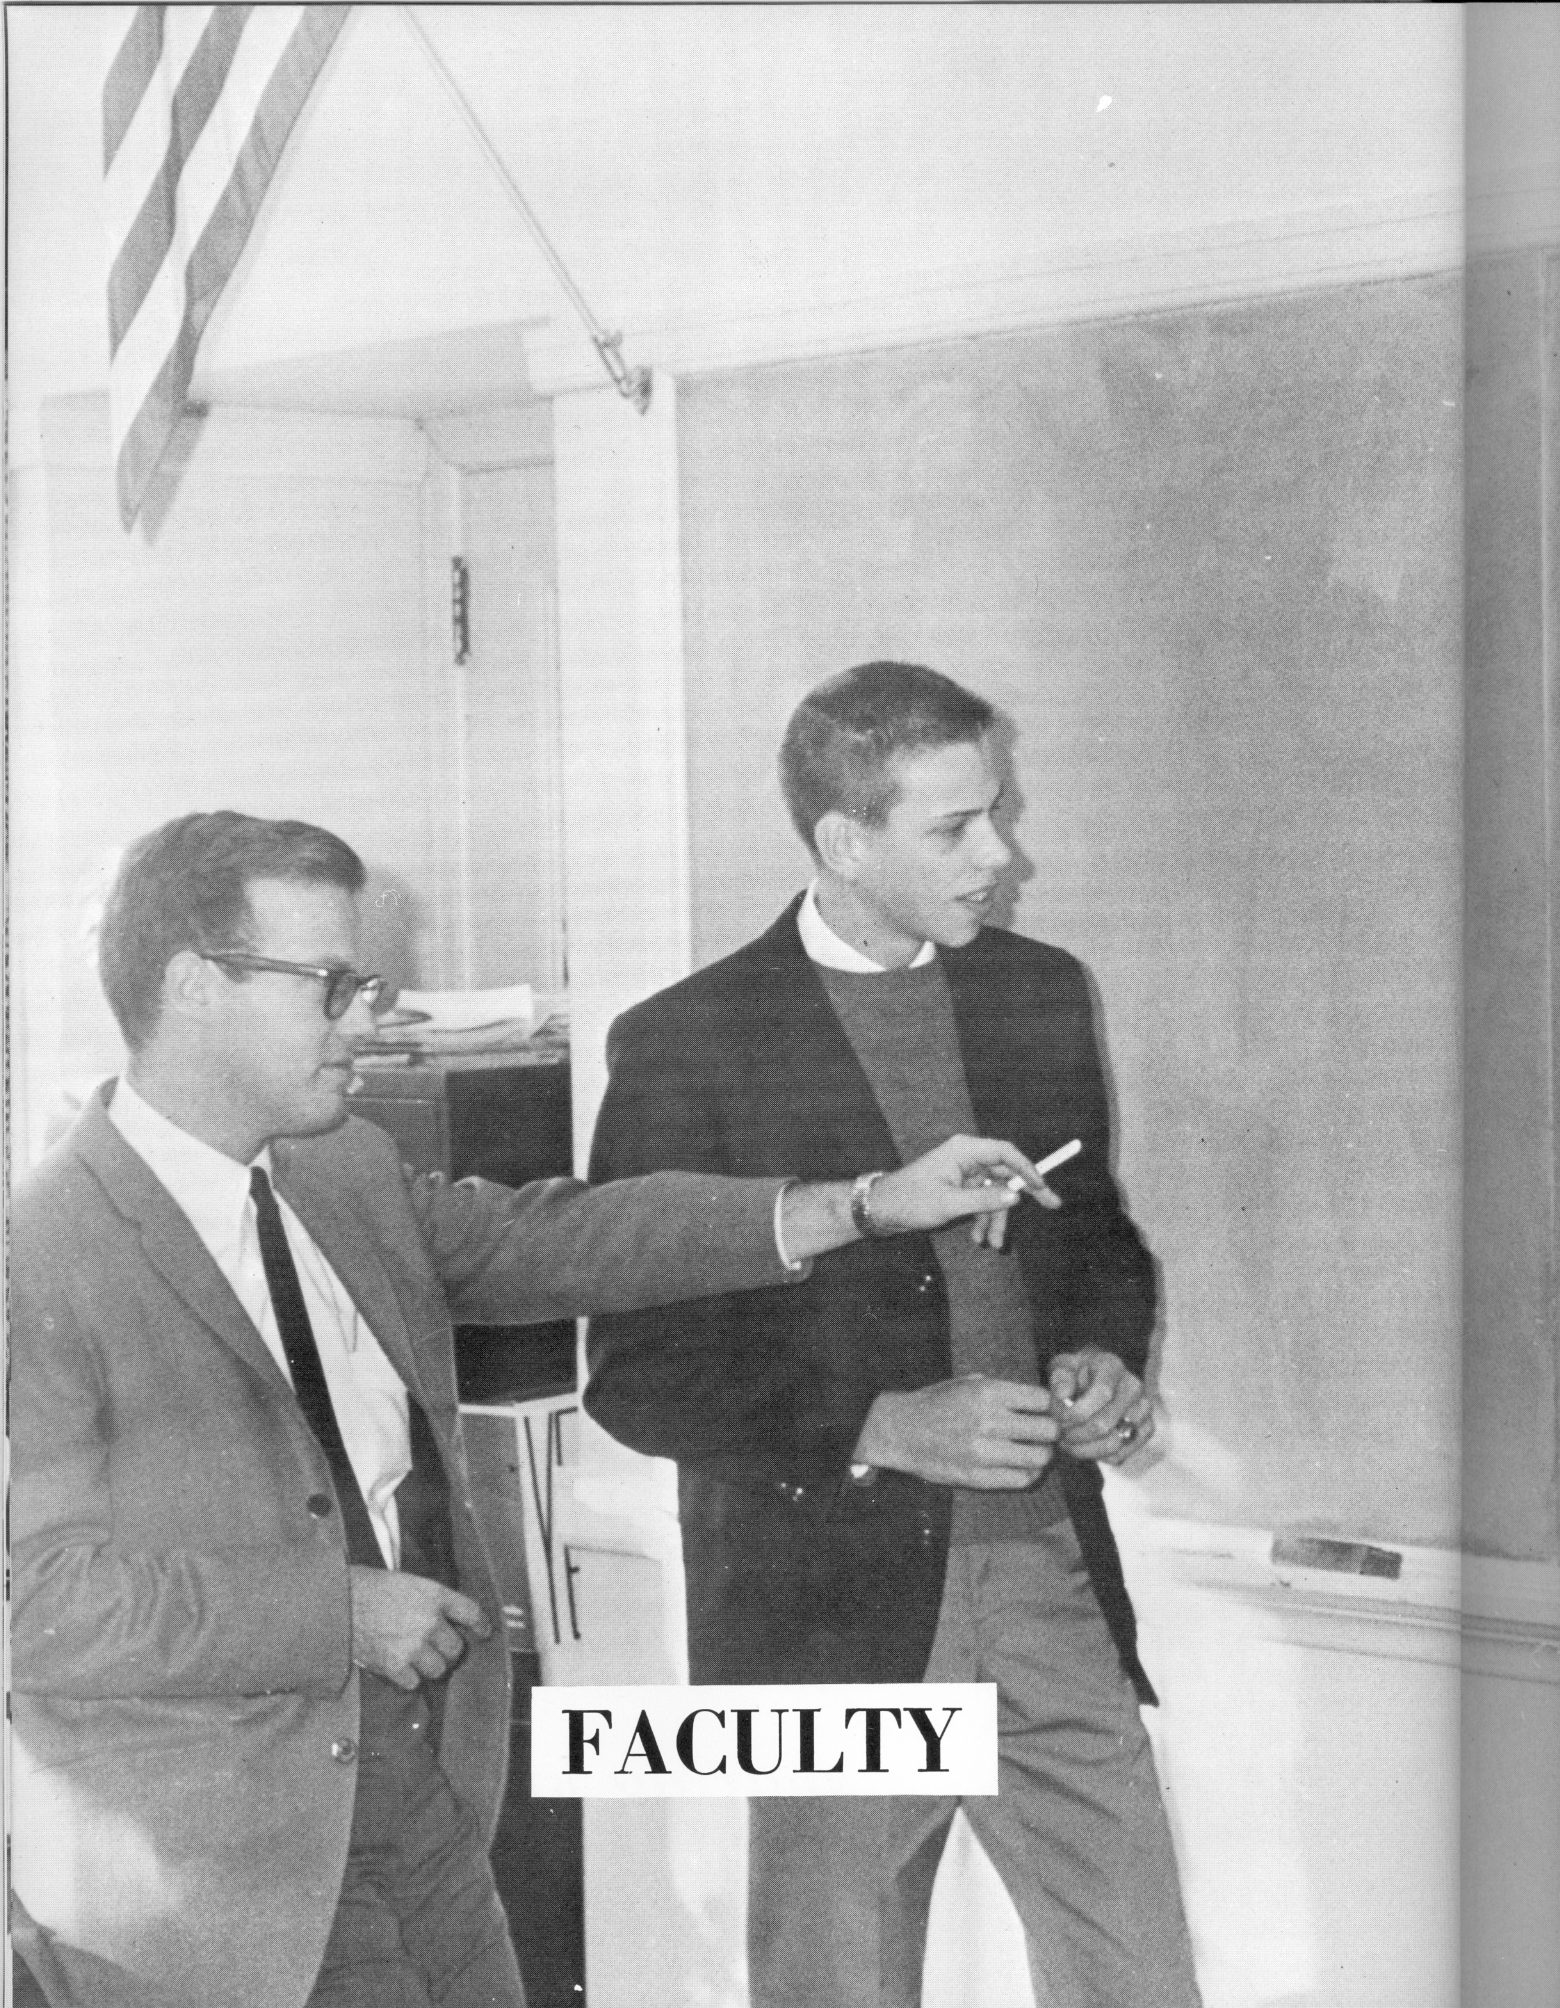

Checking girl absentees is one of the many duties of Miss Rosemary Cummings, Dean of Girls.

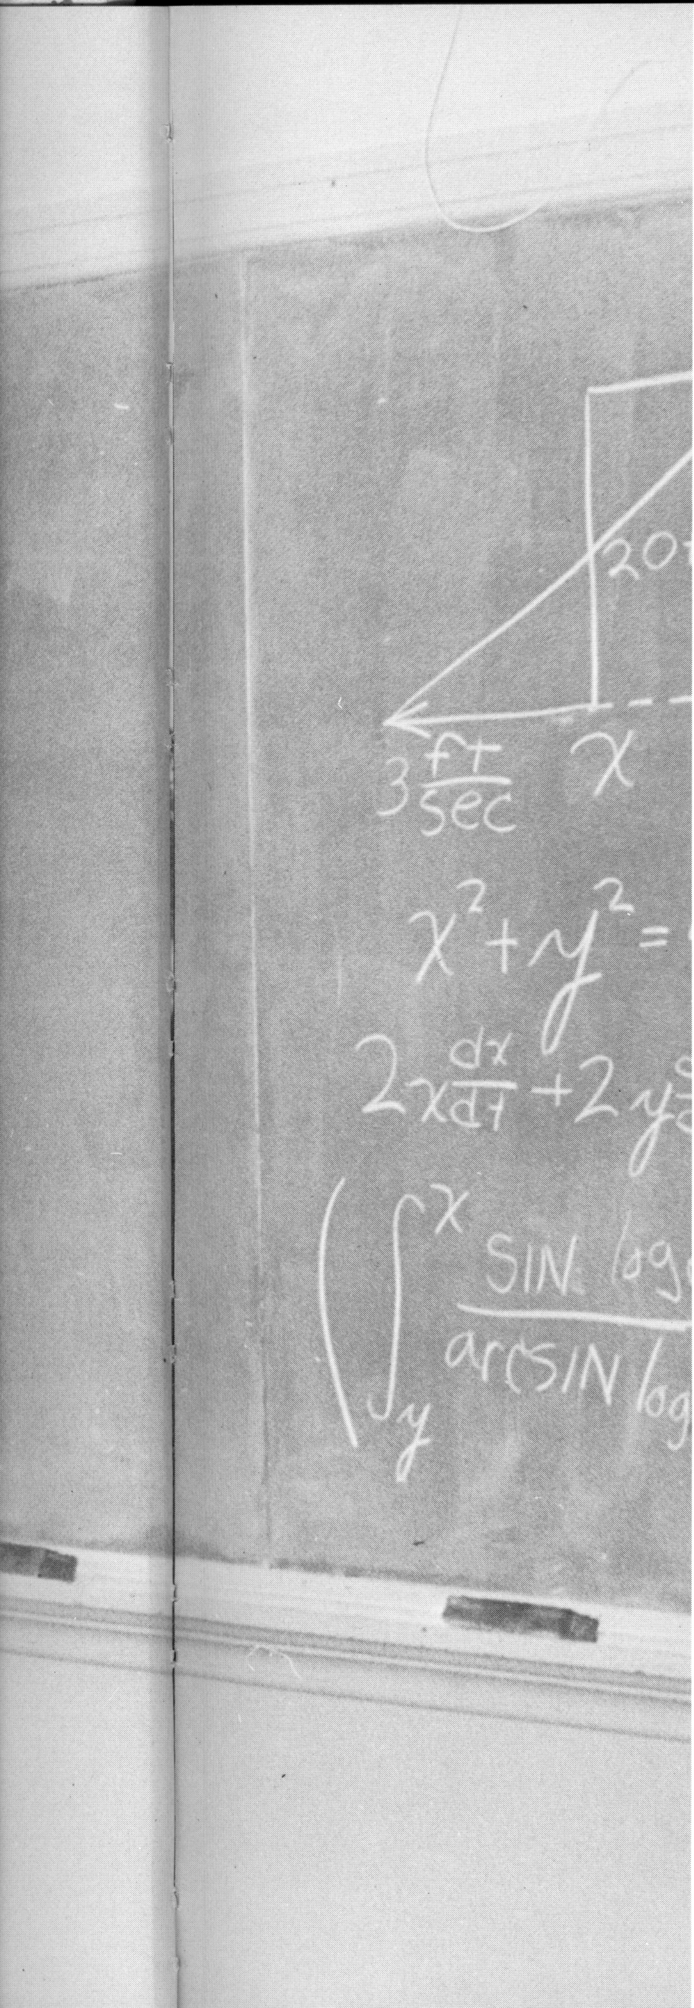

Two seniors, Helen Hajjar and Jane Kruczkowski regularly assist Mr. Frank T. Coughlin, Technical Vice-Principal, with clerical duties.

One of the more unpleasant duties of Mr. Edward J. McKenna, Vice-Principal, is the issuing of those tardy slips which lead to detention.

FACULTY

. . . sharing knowledge

English teachers active in

More than 8,000 books annually pass through the hands of Miss Rosemary Haylon, English Department Head.

Aside from class responsibilities, members of the English faculty provide the impetus behind various extra-curricular activities. More than one-half of these teachers are involved as advisers in activities ranging from cheerleading to debating, dramatics, publications, and creative writing. The department is also striving to improve English facilities at P.H.S. This year, for instance, they are planning programs to augment audio-visual materials with funds from the NDEA Program.

An important phase of English is reading improvement. Miss Laura Hodges explains some of her equipment to Miss Maryann Harubin and Mr. Thomas McGill.

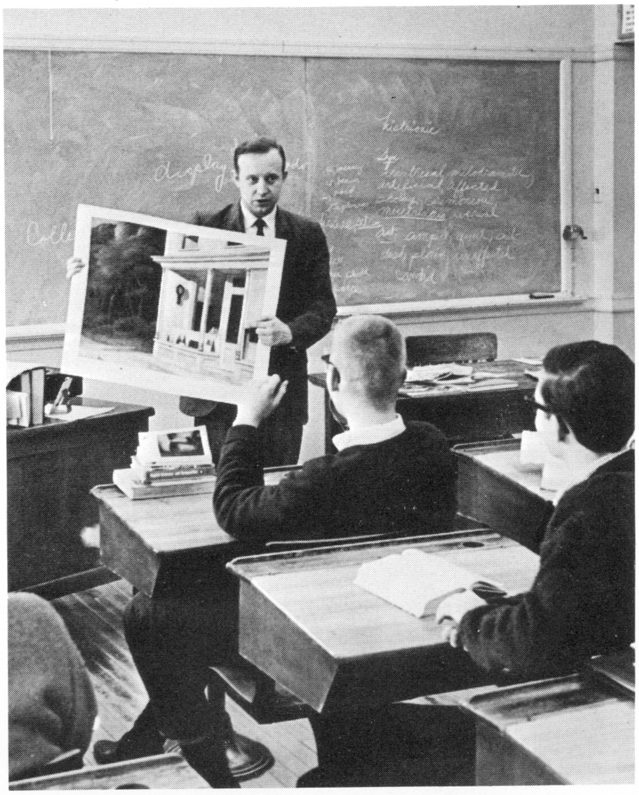

To aid students in the selection of books, the English Department supervises a paperback book store. Mr. Donald Anderson, Miss Lauretta Guiltinan, and Miss Theresa Tierney discuss one of the many book available.

extra-curricular work

Our capable librarian, Miss Elizabeth Currier, helps Mrs. Julia Solnica and Mr. Joseph Fox select reference materials for the Maplewood Essays.

Creative writing can be fun, especially when Mr. David Peirce provides a subject from art or music.

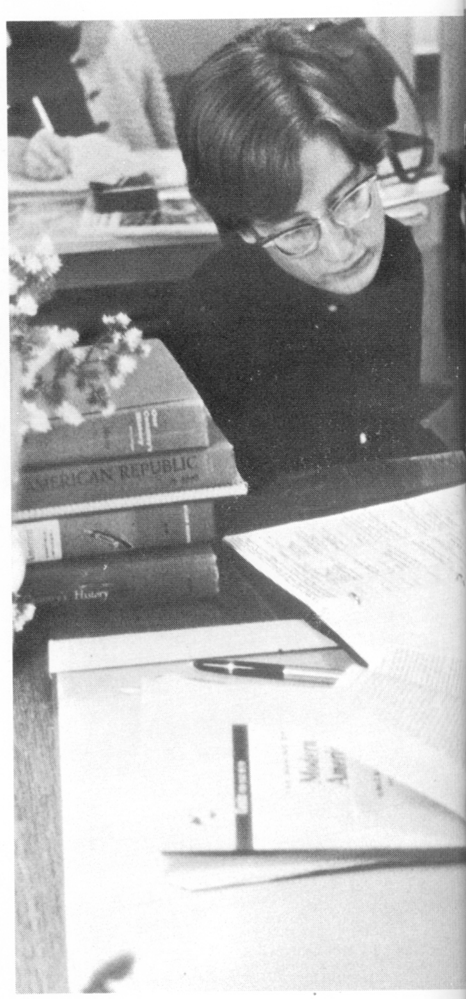

Mrs. Patricia O'Leary and Miss Margaret Hoffman, business advisers, and Mrs. Sheila Schlawin, literary adviser, look over a recent issue of the Student's Pen.

A moment of relaxation for Mr. Kasuba and Mrs. Forino as they select records to enrich their regular English materials.

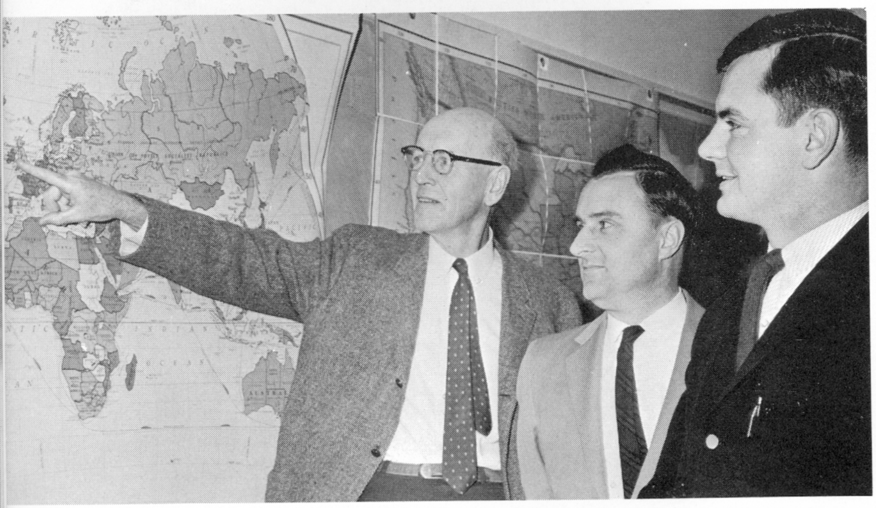

History Department

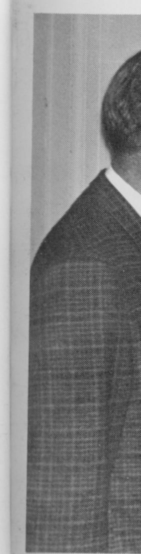

Although the Romans believed the world was flat, Mr. Edmund Bercury and Miss Dorothy Margolin often consult the globe during their ancient history classes.

Using one of his many colored maps, Mr. Clarence Carey explains a point to Mr. William Ryan and Mr. George Callaghan.

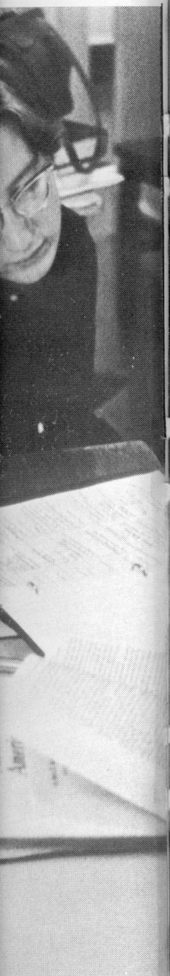

At the end of the day Mr. Phillip Pomerantz and Mr. Paul Rodhouse have a final discussion before leaving school.

sponsors student teachers

Participation in the student teacher program of the University of Massachusetts is one of this year's highlights in the history department. These student teachers assume full class-room duties under the supervision of Pittsfield High teachers.

The department also sponsors the P.H.S. participation in the Student Government Day held in Boston and the annual Voice of Democracy Contest.

Miss Emily Drake, one of several student teachers, plans her lessons with Miss Margaret Kaliher, Head of the History Department.

Exam time for students of Mr. Joseph Gleason, Mr. John Reagan, and Mr. Frank Moynihan finds the teachers running off copies on the department mimeograph.

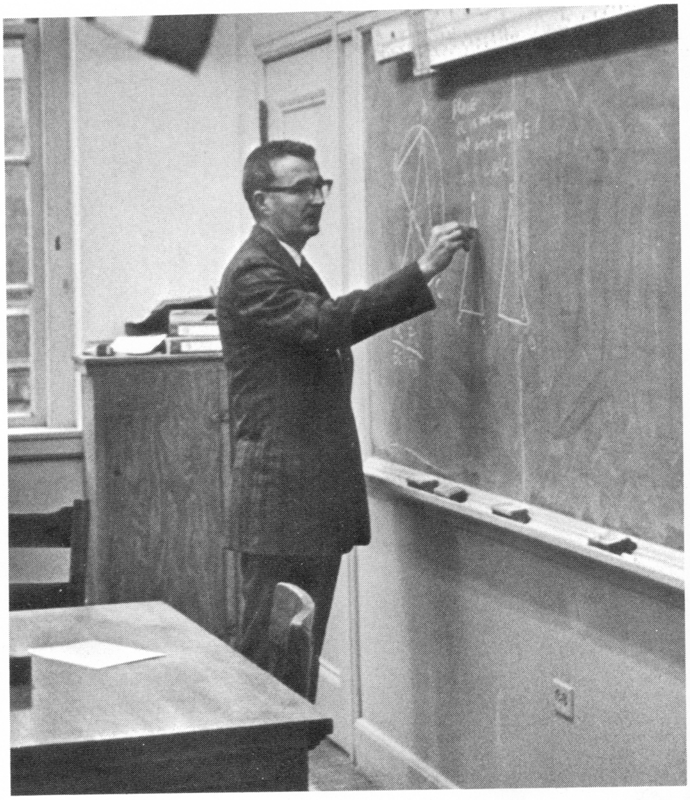

Pomerantz
discussion

European History teachers, Mr. John Murray, Miss Barbara Burgner, and Miss Florence Coffey, keep abreast of the times by discussing a bulletin board on the Viet Nam War.

Math changes with the times

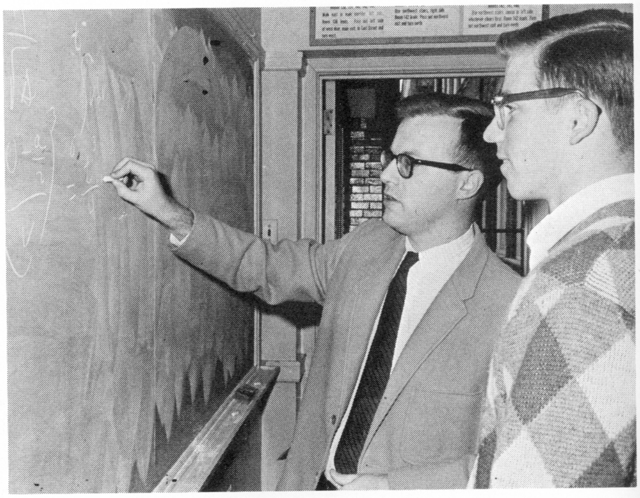

In keeping with current trends, our Mathematics Department is in a period of transition. Next year traditional math will be completely replaced by modern math, which was first introduced in the high school two years ago. New texts have been purchased which emphasize this new approach. Students in all levels are reaping the benefits of this improved method of mathematics instruction.

Mr. William Broderick, Head of the Mathematics Department, emphasizes a point at the board.

Mrs. Florence Henderson and Mr. Milon Herrick chat between classes.

Mr. Gilbert French tries to clarify a problem in calculus for John Schermerhorn.

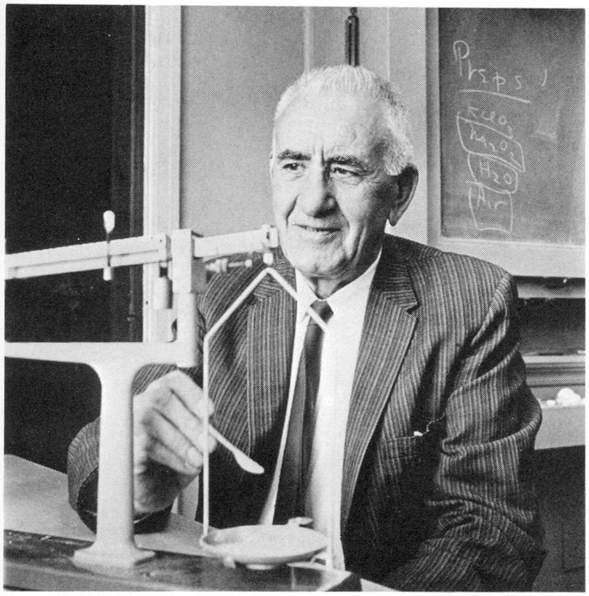

Although the phone often interrupts their classes, Miss Gladys Archey and Miss Pauline Kelly still manage to smile.

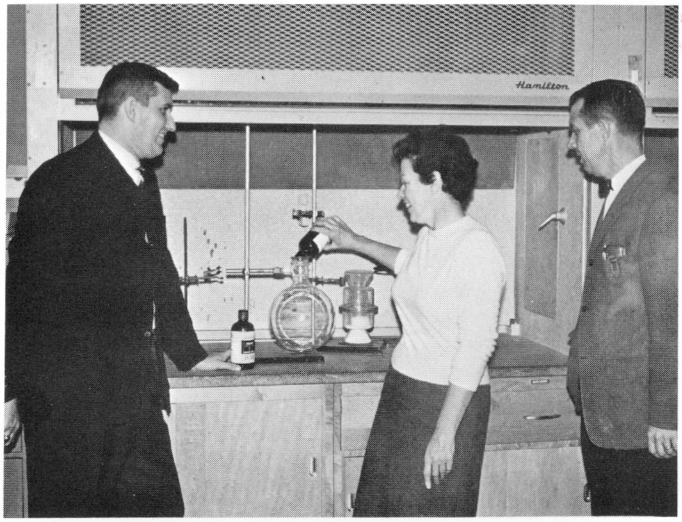

Science modernization is completed

Modernization of the laboratory facilities in the science area began three years ago and was completed during the past summer. The physics, chemistry, and biology laboratories were completely remodeled.

In accordance with this modernization, new teaching methods have been introduced. Biological studies now focus on cellular structure, and chemistry centers around atomic structure.

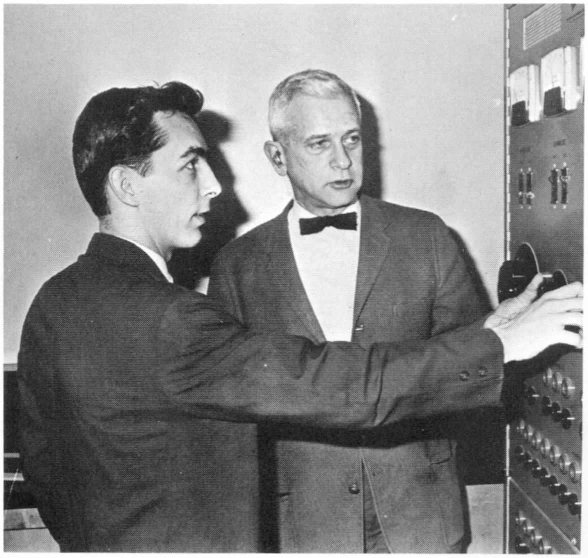

"Chemistry is an exact science," Mr. John Leahy, Department Head, explains, as he weighs out chemicals on a balance.

Practicing classroom techniques are chemistry teachers Mr. Edward Daly, Mrs. Frances Guiltinan, and Mr. Frank Blowe.

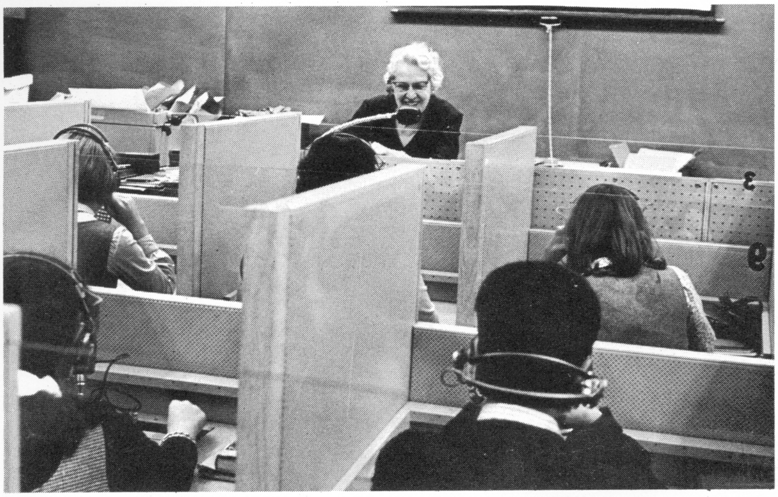

Among the equipment in the biology lab is an overhead projector which Mr. William Murray is demonstrating to Mr. Francis Jaehnert and Mr. Edward Blagdon.

In the physics lab Mr. Douglas Pepin and Mr. David Buchman adjust the electrical control board.

Foreign languages go modern

The modern language laboratory, here being supervised by Miss Helene Millet, plays an important role in language instruction.

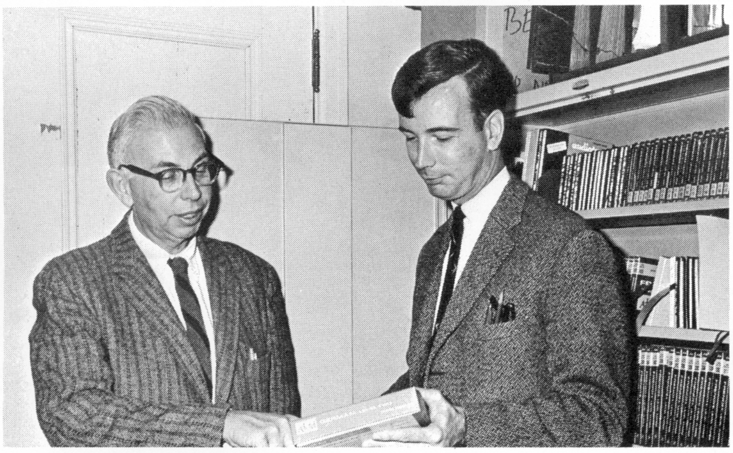

This year the Foreign Language Department has converted entirely to the audio-lingual method of Foreign Language instruction. At first, this method emphasizes the speaking and listening aspects of a language, but later concentrates more on the written language and its literature. Thus, the students are not only able to write their language, but also to speak it more fluently.

Using ALM materials requires a previous knowledge of audio-visual equipment. Mr. David Quinlan explains the operation of a tape recorder to Miss Eileen Daly.

Before showing a film strip on France to their classes, Mr. Bernard Gravelle and Miss Margaret Curtin set up the projector.

Two German teachers, Mr. Robert Hall and Mr. Robert Edwards, discuss a set of ALM records.

Mr. Francis Fazio and Miss Josephine Scelsi rewind a Spanish tape.

Commercial program is broadened

This year the Commercial Department is diversifying its traditional courses of typing, bookkeeping, and shorthand to include a computer training program. New equipment this year includes a key-puncher, counter, reproducer, and printer.

In the IBM classroom Mr. Robert Kriger, Head of the Commercial Department, instructs students in data processing.

Operating a mimeograph in the Commercial office is one of the duties of Miss Elizabeth Enright and Miss Jane Heaphy.

Mr. Greg Voci demonstrates a new electric typewriter to Mrs. Elsie Stephens and Miss Helene Carmel.

During lunch Mrs. Beatrice Thomas, Mrs. Marion Smith, and Miss Doris Carmel chat.

Tech program stresses science

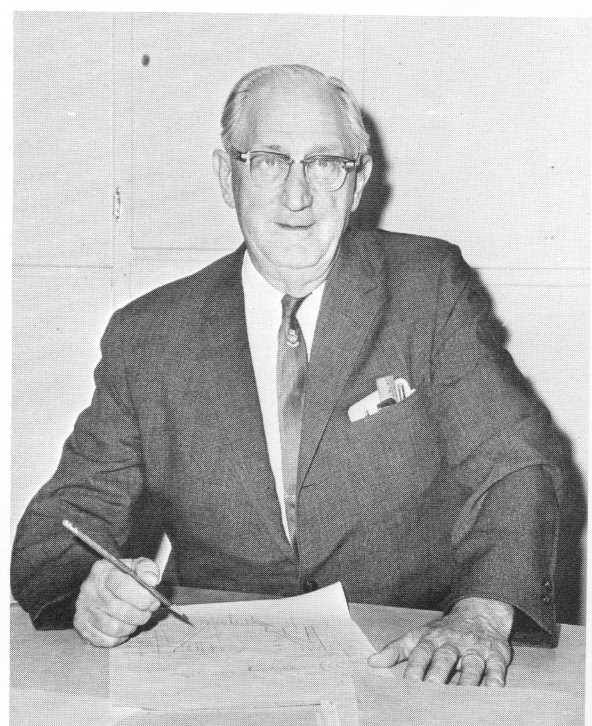

In a department that concentrates so deeply on the sciences and mathematics, technical students consider themselves a breed apart. This curriculum is designed to meet the needs of those students who have a genuine interest in an engineering or a scientific career. The department is especially proud of its highly developed electrical laboratory.

Discussing the operations of the audio oscillator and the oscilloscope are Mr. Roger Clark, Mr. Daniel Minecci, and Mr. Lawrence De Blaisis.

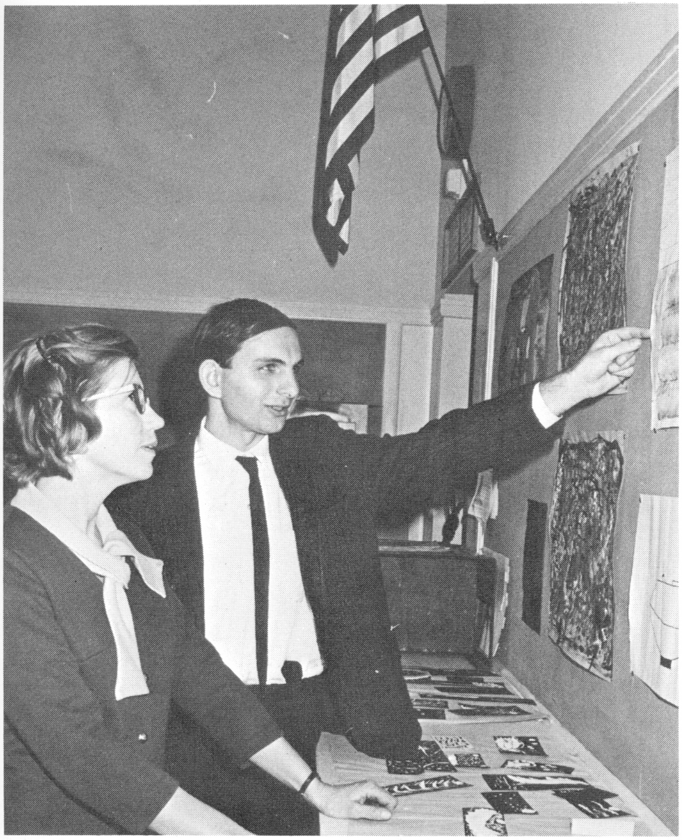

Mr. Edmund Strzepa and Mr. Alphonse Caprio work with the digital ammeter.

Mr. George Klupfel checks over one of the many mechanical drawings submitted by his students.

Art takes a giant step

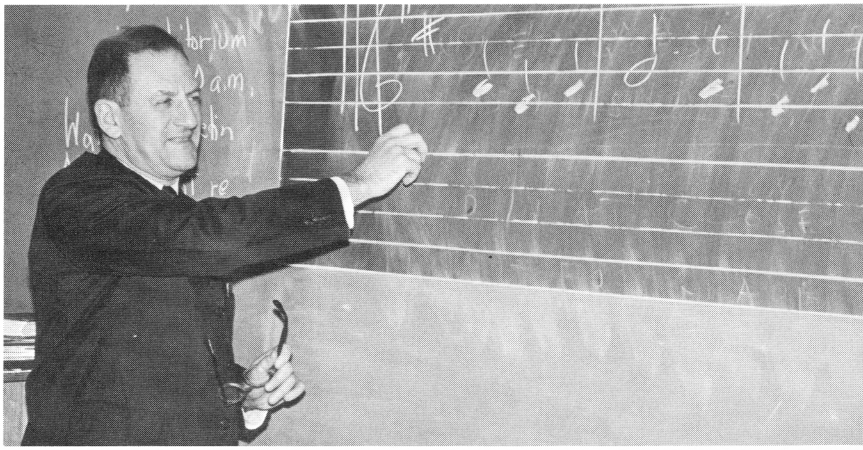

This year, for the first time, the Pittsfield High School Art Department has established a full-time art program extending into many phases of school life. Under the leadership of Mrs. Nancy Delaiti and Mr. Morris Bennett, the department offers courses in studio art, art appreciation, and special programs for the handicapped.

Mrs. Nancy Delaiti and Mr. Morris Bennett look over a display of student art.

Musical Notes

Though the school does not offer a full-time program, music remains an important part of the curriculum. Courses in music appreciation and harmony are offered to juniors and seniors. In addition, the department sponsors a band, orchestra, chorus and dance band open to all students.

Mr. Floyd Lancia, band and orchestra director

Dr. Morton Wayne, Supervisor of Music

Vocational offers skills

Mr. Hunter Robertson and Mr. Howard Kraay are shown with the console for testing engine performance.

The Vocational Department offers diversified courses to students who show an aptitude for training in manual skills and mechanics. Among the courses offered are drafting, auto body, auto mechanics, carpentry, welding, sheet metal work, machine shop, and printing.

The men who instruct in these fields are all skilled craftsmen who take justifiable pride in the many achievements of their classes.

Mr. Donald Clark demonstrates the new layout machine in the print shop to Gloria Fry, an associate editor of the Dome.

Mr. Jesse Haffley and Mr. Myles Burke check a welding job at the end of the day.

At the drafting board examining a drawing are Mr. Asel Harvey and Mr. Francis Bresnehan.

for the future

Though one usually associates vocational education with boys working in shops, the Pittsfield High Vocational curriculum also includes girls.

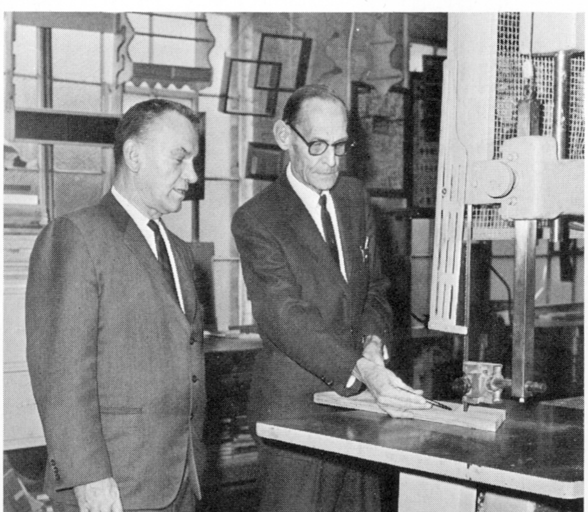

Courses in Household Arts and Retail Sales lead many a young lady to successful careers in home economics or in store work, to say nothing of the most important position of all—future mother and homemaker.

Setting the timer on the new oven are Miss Marion Willis, Department Head, and Miss Margaret Manvel.

Miss Ann Nugent, Co-ordinator of the Retail Sales Department, points with pride to one of the student arranged showcases.

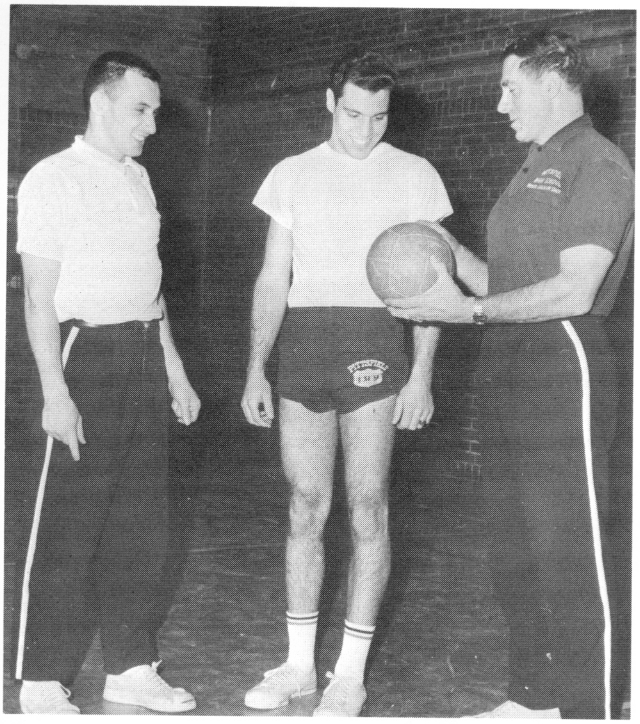

In the wood-working shop Mr. Louis Gasson and Mr. James Driscoll work with the band saw.

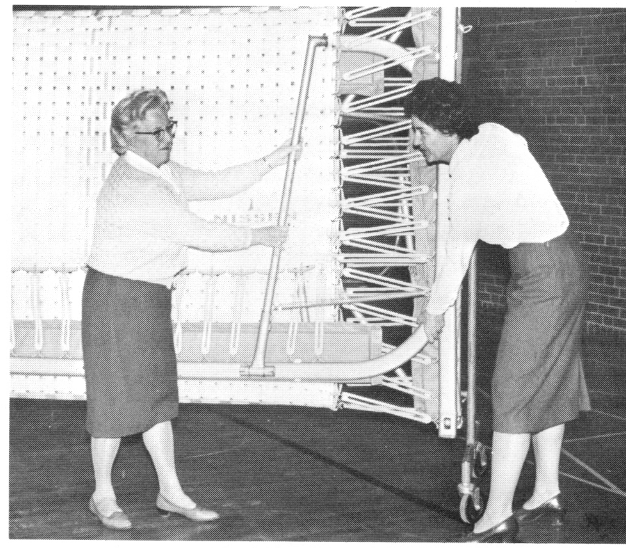

Mr. James Ferris and Mr. Richard O'Donnell prepare to reassemble the jig boring machine.

Physical education has a wide scope

Coaches Rudolph Benedetti and George Sylvester explain volleyball techniques to John Russo.

Physical education courses, required of all sophomores and juniors, emphasize activities designed to improve individual skills and coordination. The boys' department includes a program ranging from touch football to basketball, softball, volleyball, and gymnastics. The girls' section features gymnastics, field hockey, volleyball, and basketball.

Miss Helen McNaughton and Miss Jean Morgan fold up a trampoline.

Driver Education

In the most distinctive classroom in P.H.S., Mr. Frank Maiorano makes Driver Education far more than a survival course.

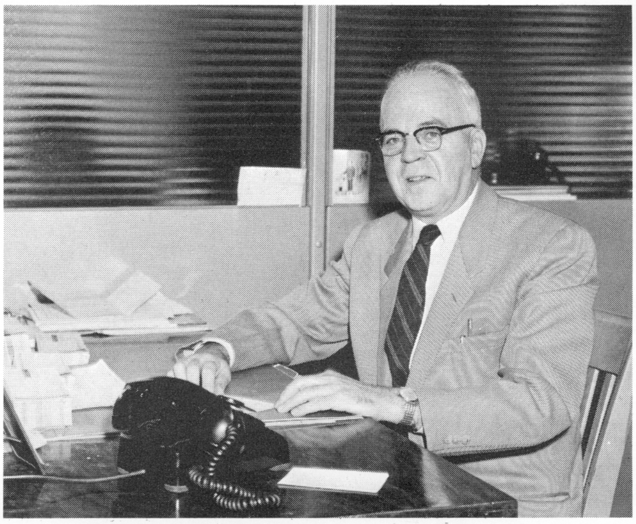

Guidance helps solve problems

Mr. Charles Murphy, Director of Guidance for the Pittsfield Public Schools.

Problems—problems! Who doesn't have problems? One place in P.H.S. tries to have the answers—Guidance.

Familiar to all the students, especially the seniors, the Guidance Department provides, in addition to counselors, multitudes of college catalogues, vocational pamphlets, and statistical information of all sorts. Day after day representatives from colleges all over the country arrive in Room 141 to talk to hopeful students.

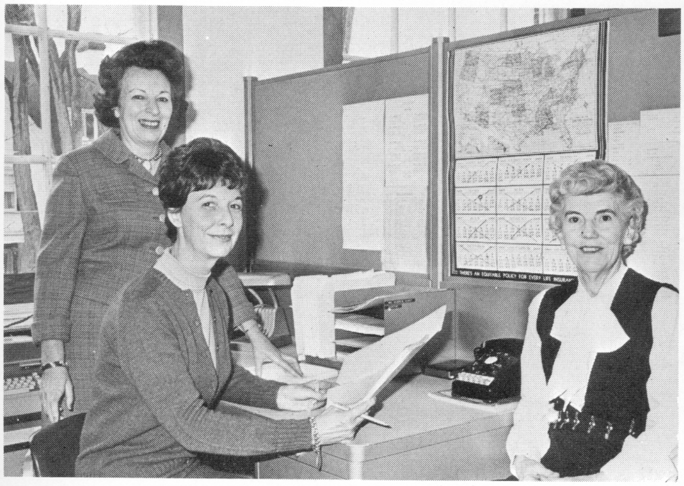

Mr. Walter Reagan, Head Guidance Counselor.

Two secretaries, Mrs. Gladys Hickey and Mrs. Mildred Quinn, provide valuable assistance to both counselors and students.

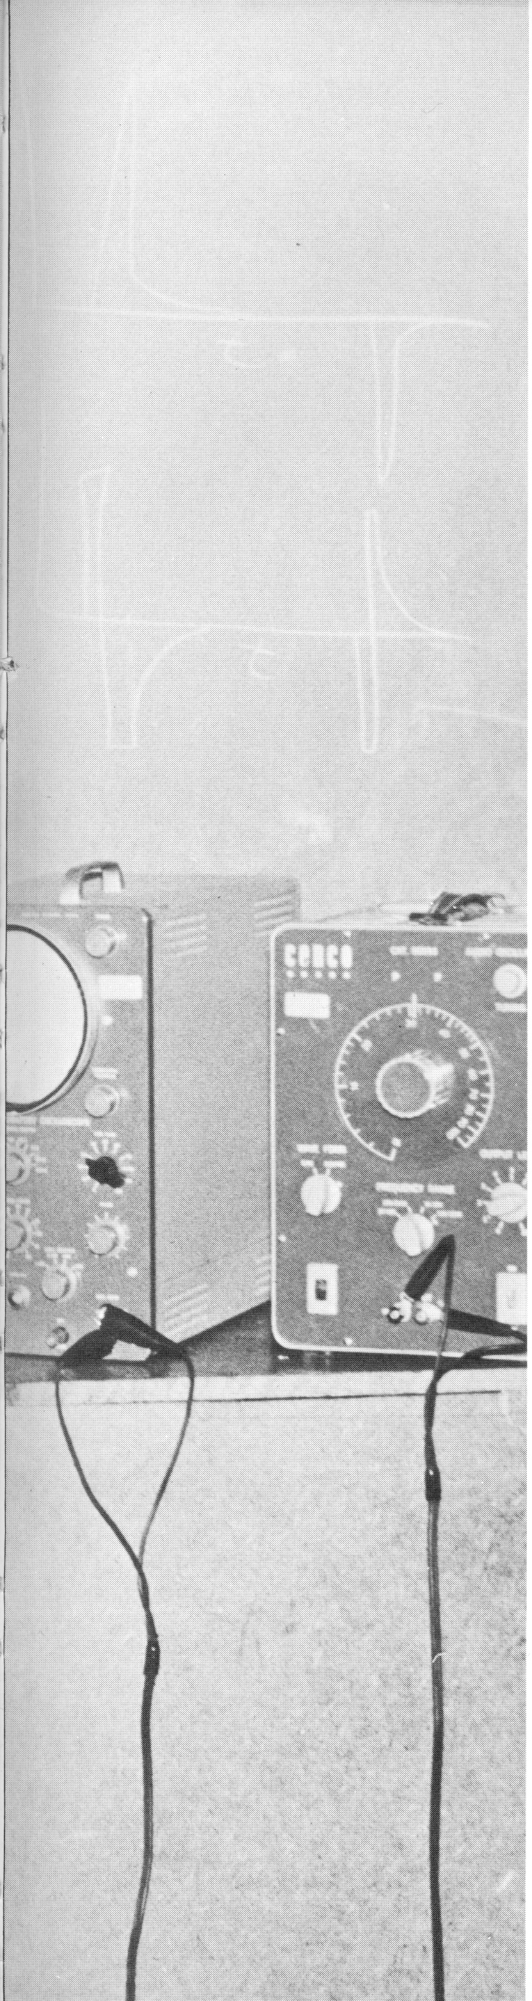

Mr. Edmund Plummer and Mr. William Hayes examine one of the many college catalogues available to P.H.S. students.

Counselors for girls, Mrs. Nita Lamb, Miss Elizabeth Hearn, and Miss Constance Keegan, enjoy a rare moment of relaxation during the day.

CLASSROOM SCENES

...sharing ideas

Tales in and out of school

Putting his books into his desk, John Schermerhorn looks startled as Bruce Geller mentions a rumor of a "surprise" quiz.

Torn bookcovers . . .
Leaky pens . . .
Crowded halls . . .
Corridor passes . . .
Warning bells . . .
Tardy slips . . .
Detention . . .
All these are part of school life. The classroom, though, is the most important and familiar aspect, regardless of the curriculum. Each of our classrooms like each of us is different. The knowledge we gain there, however, like the friendship, is shared by all.

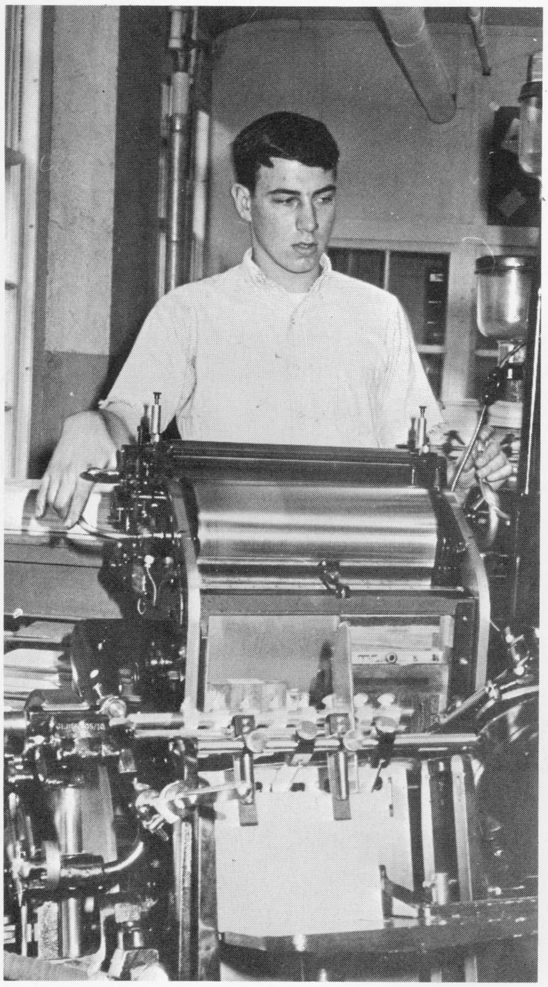

The office is a busy, familiar place where students wander in for tardy slips, information on college applications, or a "visit" with Miss Cummings or Mr. McKenna. Above, Pam Poggio checks on an application with Mrs. Roberts as Mrs. Hannigan talks on the phone and Mrs. Goldstein checks a register.

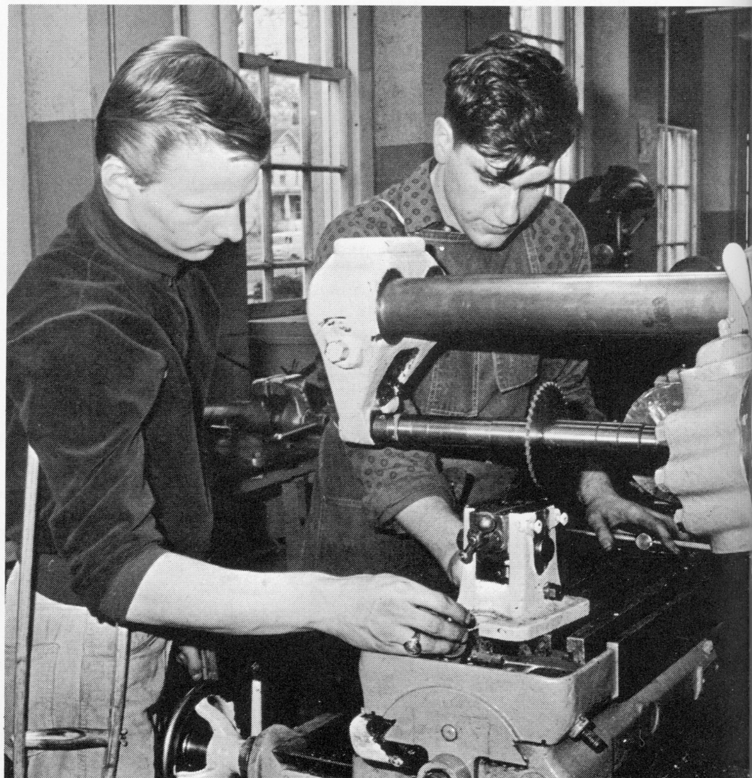

Unlike most teenage boys, Peter Spiewak and John Launt fix rather than bend fenders.

Sparks of skill burn as Mike Stracuzzi welds to build a future.

Nando Delmolino's skill with a printing press is often used to print programs for P.H.S. activities.

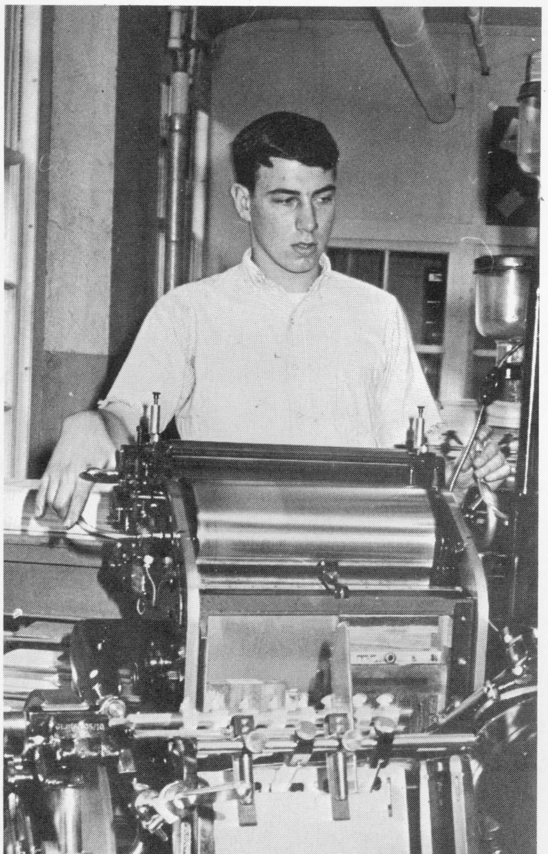

Gaining knowledge by experience, Mike Hasset and Walter Vezina acquire their "know how" on the job.

Carol Blackburn, Linda Moore, Gail Moore Annamarie Zaveruka, and Sue Mason learn the uses of the I.B.M. machine.

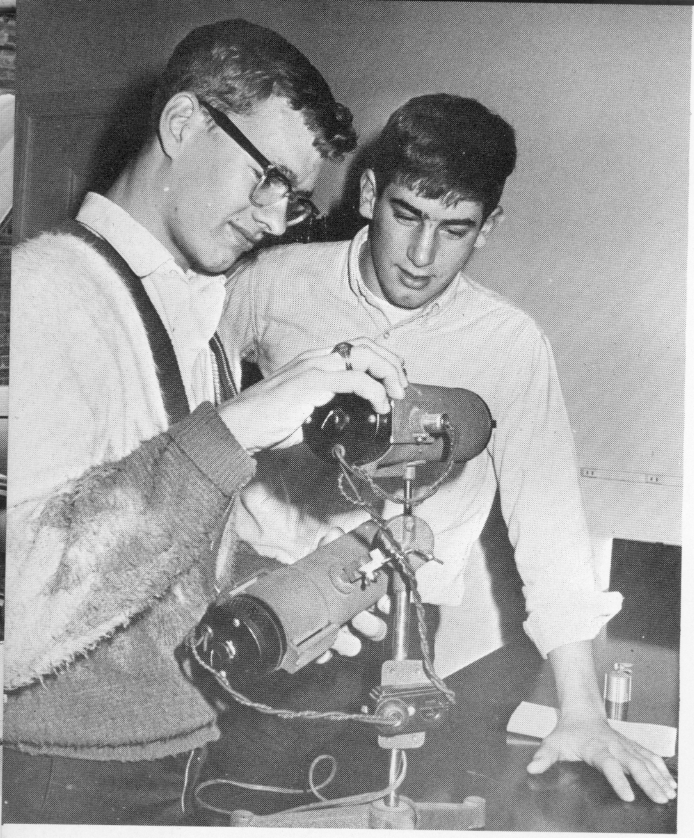

Betsy Boure watches as Donna Cook sews a stubborn seam.

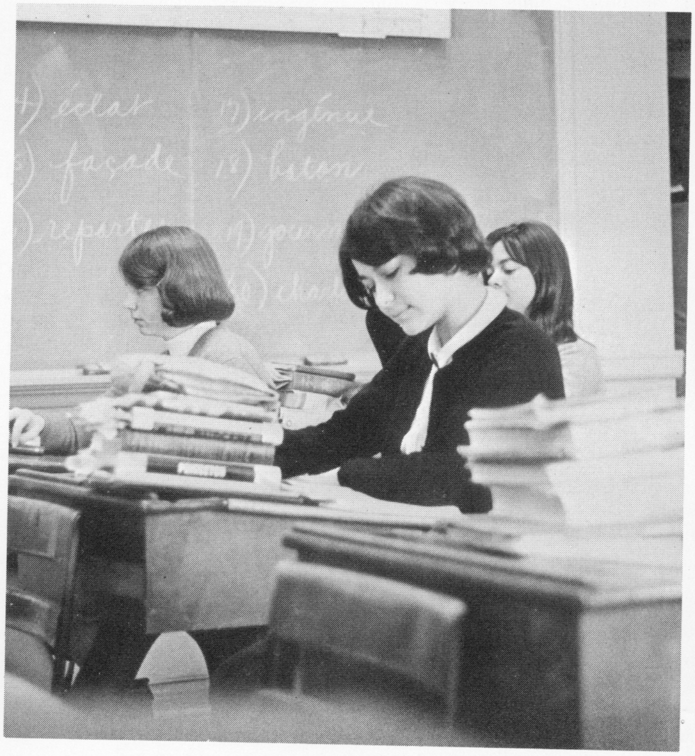

Suellen Robichaud completes her task of pie-making, carefully wrapping the finished product.

Miss Enright shows Commercial girls that practice really does make perfect.

Steve Scace and Mike Makes tackle an advanced physics experiment.

Judy Ross, Chris Finn, and Linda DeGeorgis catch a few needed moments of study before class begins.

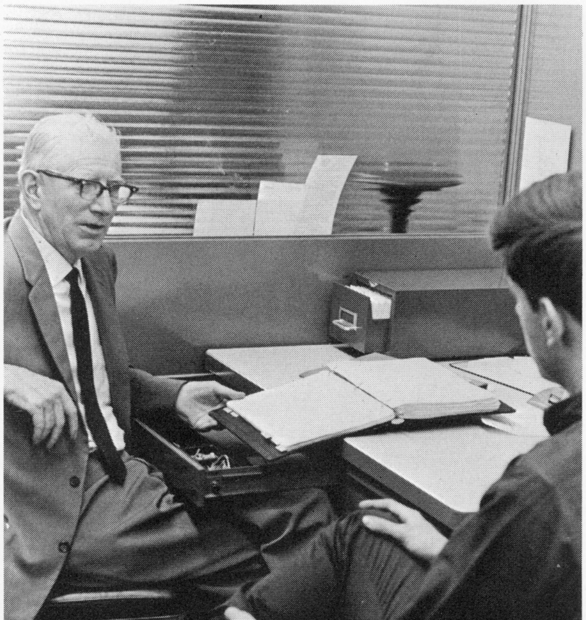

When the snow came, this pleasant fall walk turned into a cold journey for these P.H.S. students.

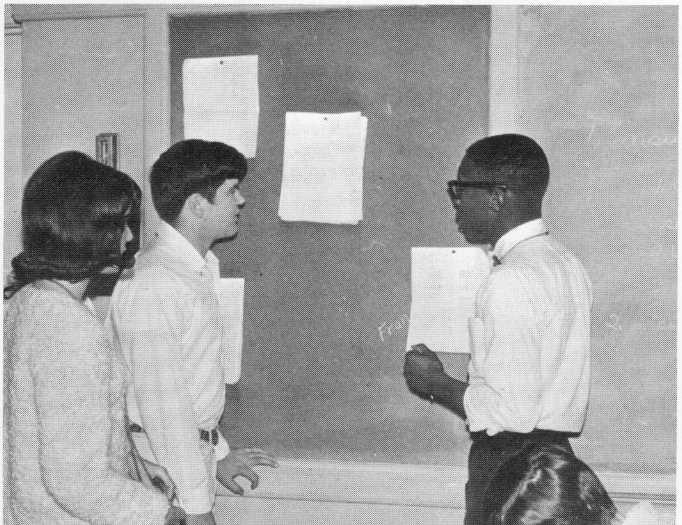

Like many other seniors, Mary Jane Boardman found Miss Currier to be a helpful person, especially with research for Maplewoods.

Kathy Slocum tries once again to come down the "up" stairs, only to find Mr. Quinlan waiting for her.

Guidance provides time out from the school day to discuss plans for the future. Mr. Hayes gives helpful suggestions to Galen Politis.

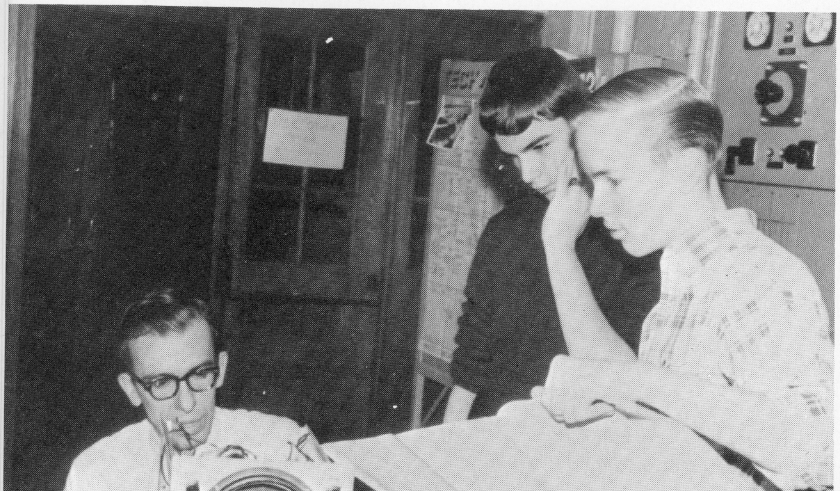

Sandy Hackman, John Harder and Stokes Hall glance at the bulletin. John looks happy. It must be a 7 A-B day!

A last minute check is made by Larry Gero and Paul Durwin on the Van de Graaf generator.

Adjusting many knobs and switches, Don Leach and Jim Mazur regulate their readings.

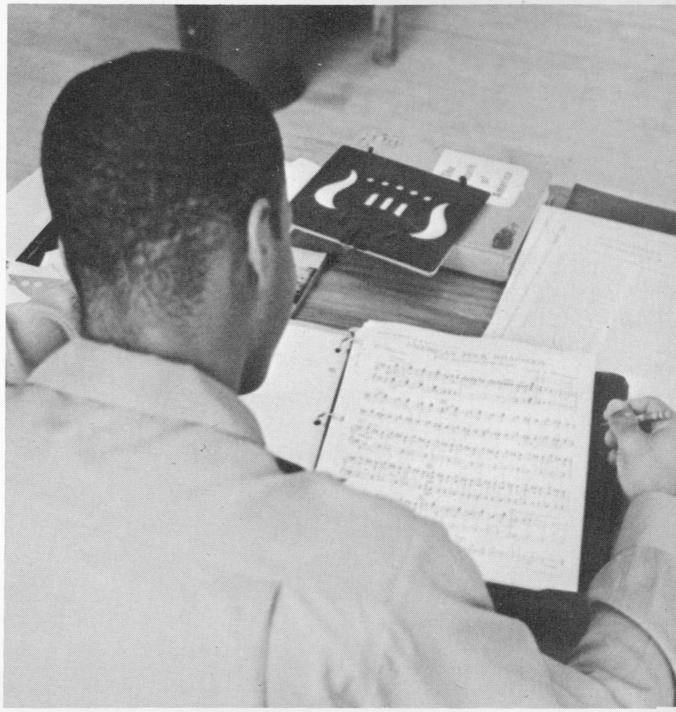

Alex Borelli and Mike Davis listen while Mr. Minneci explains the workings of this seemingly complicated machine.

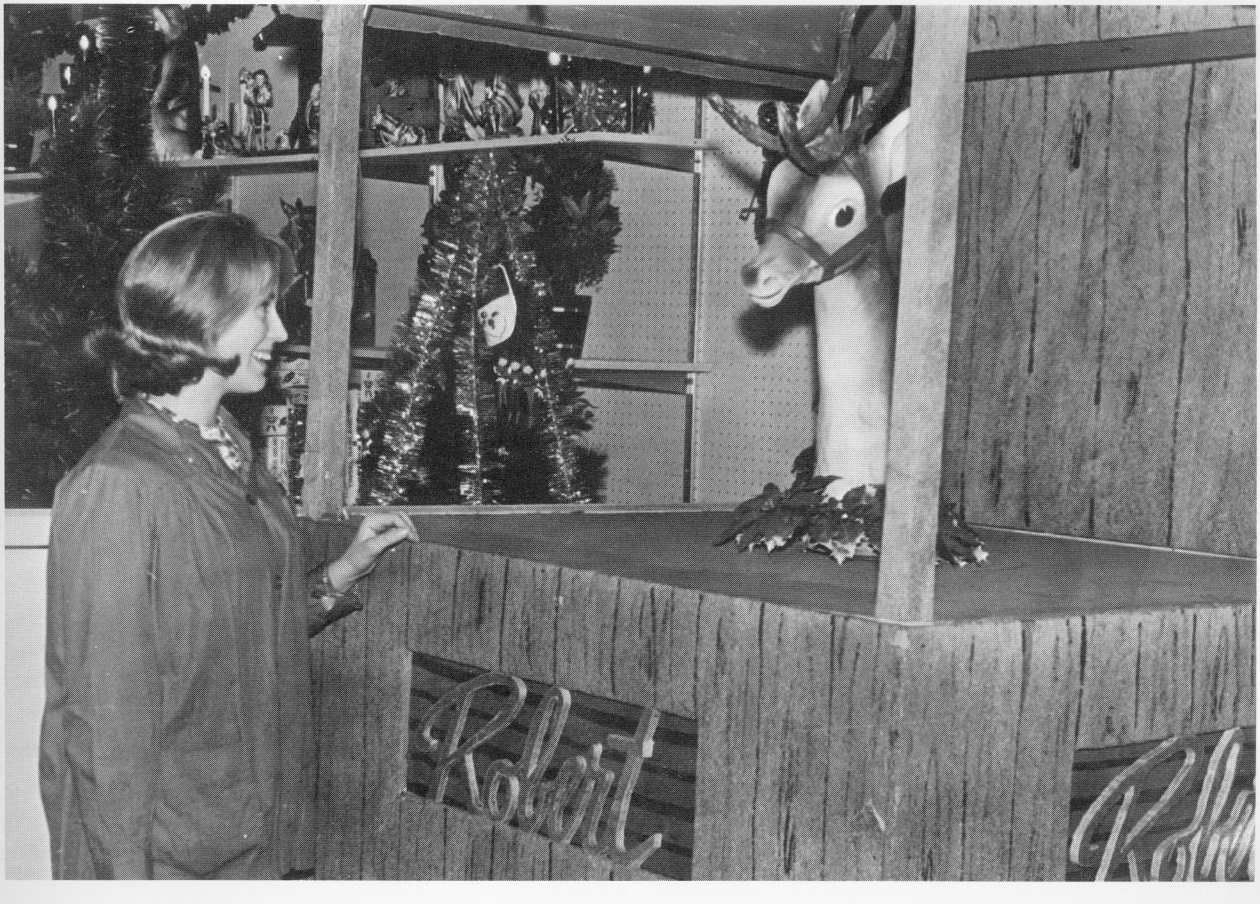

Dave Sturma works the delicate dials of the oscilloscope. Accuracy is a must in the Technical studies.

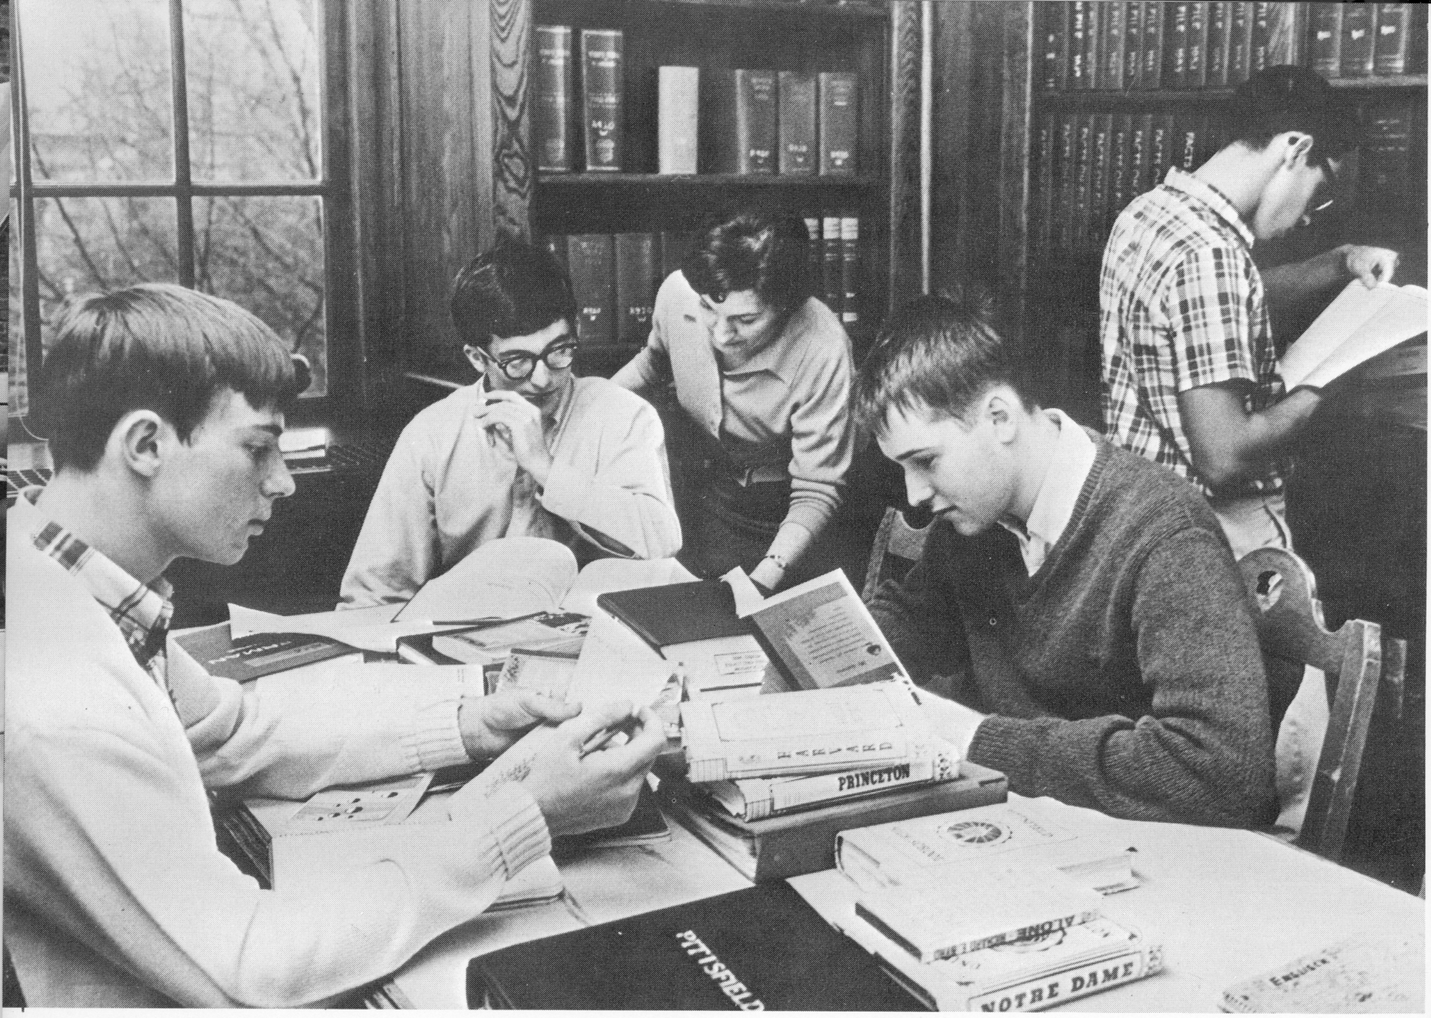

Learning to draw in perspective, John Russo sketches while Mr. Bennet makes useful comments.

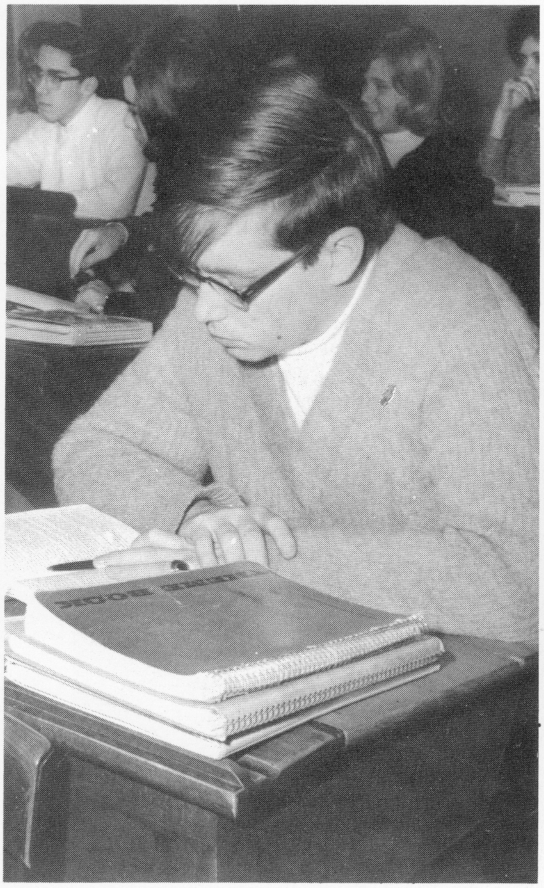

Sam Stevenson scans a music score for music appreciation course.

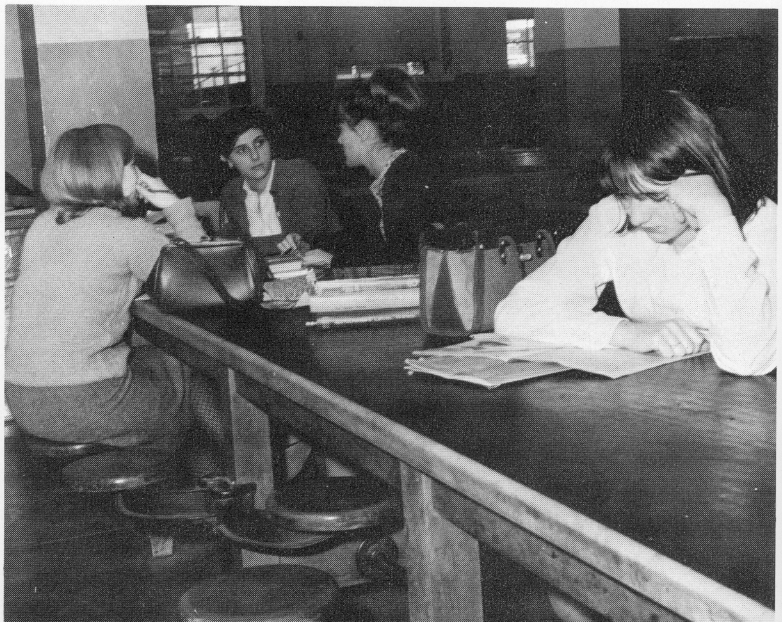

At Christmas time, local department stores become a classroom for the Retail Sales students. Above, Donna Greb tells Robert the Reindeer (alias Sue Gifford) her Christmas wishes.

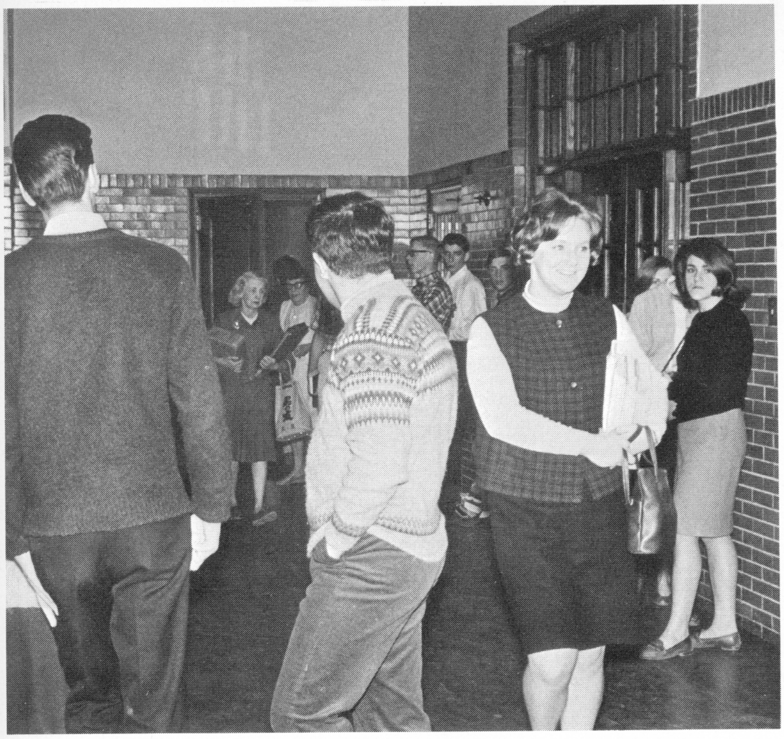

Miss Hoffman takes time out to help Bob Bondi on research work in the library, as Forest Baker and Mike Brickley study at the table and Dick Del Gallo checks a reference book.

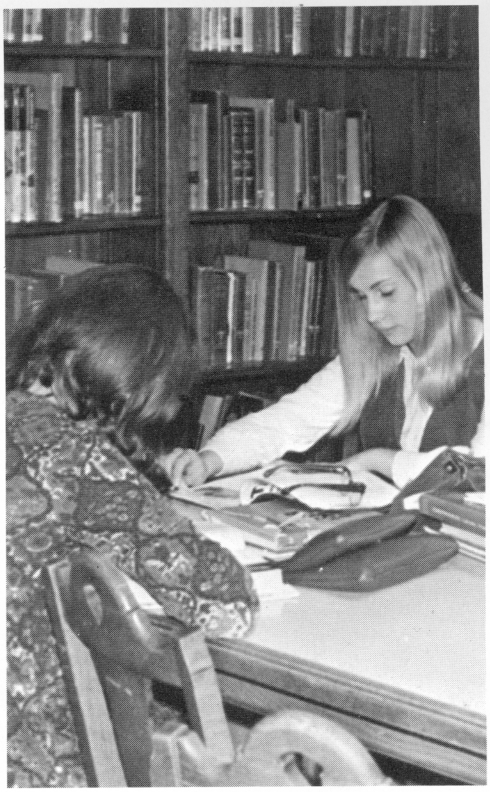

Studying hard, Pat Markham searches for the key to unlock a classroom discussion.

For some people, Study Hall doesn't always mean studying.

Leaving homerooms, students say good-bye to another long, hard school day.

Debbie Novick and Ann Kusik study after school. Departmentals tomorrow?

All roads lead to the lobby.

Carol Johnson and Bill Walker wait and wait for Donna Columbari to finish her phone conversation.

Pam Herd and Mitch Massaconi discuss the effect of their report cards in the near future.

CLASS ACTIVITIES

...sharing good times

Nearly four hundred juniors and their guests crowded the P.H.S. Gym on the night of May 28, 1965, when the Spring Carnival, our Junior Prom, came to town. The couples spent the evening dancing to the music of John Galletly's orchestra and visiting various attractions, such as the ferris wheel, the carousel, and the fortune teller's booth.

The Class of 1966 owes a big "Thank-you" to our class adviser, Miss Heaphy, to our capable co-chairmen, Cathy Porter and Dave Glodt, and to all the other enthusiastic juniors who worked so hard to make the Prom the climactic event of our junior year.

As the main attraction this old-fashioned balloon draws many visitors.

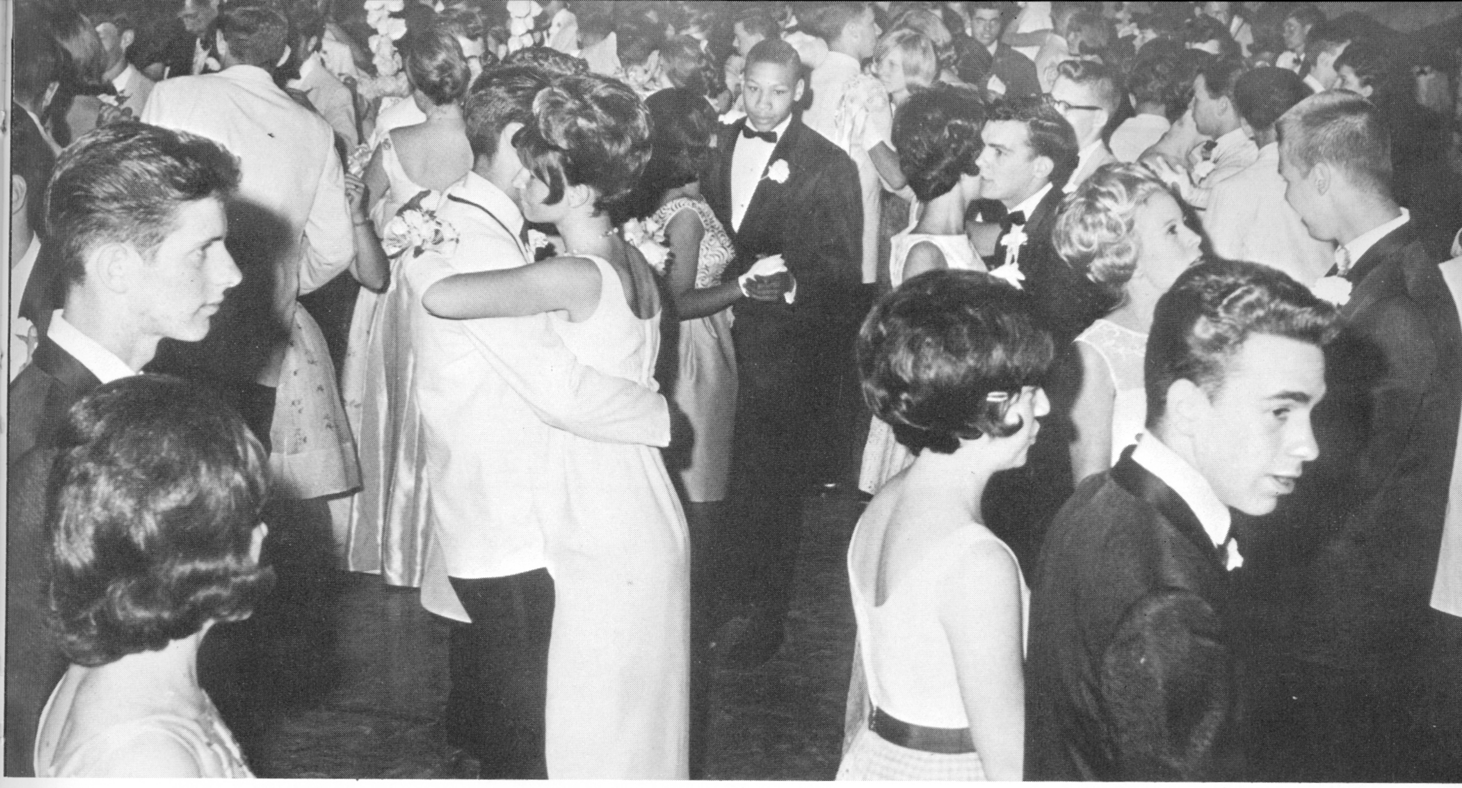

After a Coke, Judy Bond, Bob Henchey, Marijane Chitarra, and Pat Moynihan enjoy sitting and watching the dancers.

Senior leaders are chosen

Senior elections, ably managed by Chairman Helen Hajjar, held the spotlight on September 30. This event climaxed the month-long campaign to see who would head the class of 1966 in its many activities.

That morning the drab corridors between the gym lockers came alive with reverberations of voting machine levers pulled by ballot-conscious seniors. When the vote was counted, the victorious slate proved to be Peter Spina, President; Bill Bannick, Boys' Vice-President; Mary Gilson, Girls' Vice-President; Mary Brady, Secretary; and Barbara Cook, Treasurer. With such leaders how could we help having a wonderful senior year?

Helen Hajjar, election chairman, observes the balloting in the tunnel.

Here is the ballot as it appeared on Election Day, September 30, 1965.

Seniors wait to cast their votes for class officers.

Bill Bannick, candidate for Boys' Vice-President, adjusts one of his campaign posters.

Senior Class Officers

Class officers must be able and responsible people for they are expected to lead student government, manage class finances, plan and carry out all class activities. In addition they must give speeches, attend meetings and welcome guests to their school.

The six people chosen to represent the senior class at P.H.S. have earned the respect of their fellow students. Through their conscientious efforts and genuine dedication to their class, they have promoted school spirit and class pride. We are truly grateful.

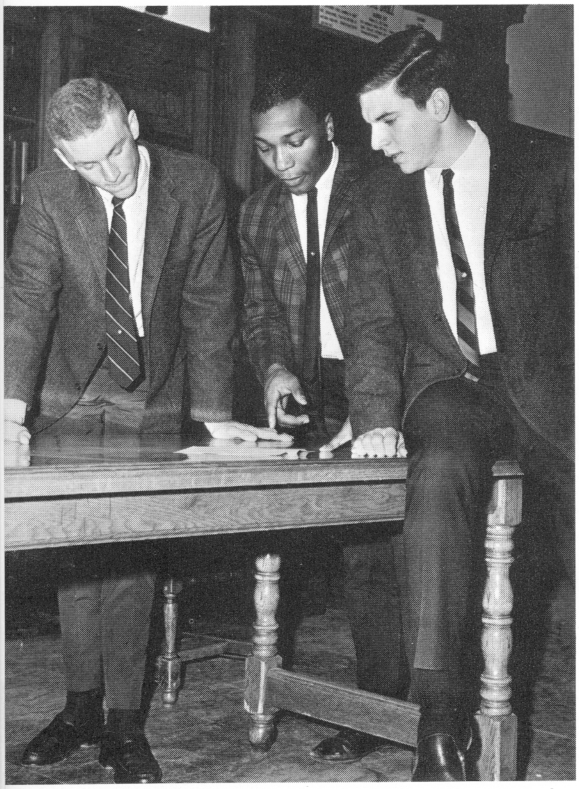

Miss Jane Heaphy

A true friend, a wise guide, a selfless giver of time and effort, a truly wonderful person—these qualities are what we will most remember about our senior class advisor, Miss Jane Heaphy. These qualities of Miss Heaphy were seen in every activity sponsored by the class of 1966—our successful elections, our beautiful proms, our senior class production, our graduation day program.

For your devotion to the class of 1966, we thank you, Miss Heaphy.

Democracy in action . . .

By adhering to the principles of democracy, our student government has promoted both the spirit and pride of our school. The judgment of the Senior Class Council in the election of committee co-chairmen has proved invaluable toward the success of student activities. The Student Council has been instrumental in the comprehensive exam question and also in the retention of the Driver Education program. Their endeavors will long be remembered by the class of '66.

Bill Bannick advises Larry Hunt and Donne Marchetto on their proposal about the Driver Education program.

Faculty advisor Mr. Frank Blowe discusses the Council's ideas about comprehensive exams with Ann Barbalunga and Stan Graves.

"Star of Wonder"

The scene: a dimly-lit station house in Greystone. The time: Christmas Eve, 1965. The action: a richly dressed woman struts into the waiting room, followed by her rather irritable husband. Thus begins "The Star of Wonder," the Christmas pageant presented by the senior class.

The play, directed by Mary Garvey and Ernie West, was presented to the students in the midst of the holiday season. Dave Glodt, Sandy Gull, and Mary Gilson in leading roles, supported by many other seniors, portrayed the meaningful story of Christmas in a modern light.

"We three kings of Orient are . . ." Ernie West, Don Hayn, and Dave Fields bear gifts from afar.

Mary Gilson, as Miss Pruett, the station agent, explains to the Clarks, Dave Glodt and Sandy Gull, why a country railroad station is decorated for Christmas.

Advisors for the Pageant, Mrs. Forino and Miss Harubin, comment on the acting during a dress rehearsal.

The joy of receiving presents on Christmas morning is made possible for unfortunate children through the Santa Toy Fund. Santa Claus, (alias Fran Colvin), who collected for the fund after school in the lobby during the Christmas season, frolics here with two happy contributors, Marijane Chitarra and Carol Gigliotti.

A visit to Santa's Workshop was the theme of lobby and auditorium decorating this year. Committee members brought the lobby to life with snowflakes, piles of presents, mischievous elves, Santa Claus, and a lovely Christmas tree.

The auditorium was transformed into the exterior of Santa's Workshop. Elves danced in the balcony and on the stage. Snowflakes fell from the side curtains and holly grew down from the lights. It was a Christmas card come to life.

High school memories

"Memories never grow old." They do, however, become foggy and confused at times. What better way can there be to preserve those precious high school memories than with a yearbook?

Putting together The Dome was a job taken on only by those students who could contribute a great deal of time and effort. Choosing the most memorable events and the most meaningful pictures was the easiest part of assembling this album of memories. Working out layouts and preparing copy was much more difficult.

Editors and their staffs spent many hours trying to beat deadlines. Guiding the entire process were Miss Lauretta Guiltinan, Miss Rosemary Haylon, Miss Elizabeth Enright and Mrs. Patricia O'Leary.

The workers have been rewarded for their efforts, as The Dome provides the tangible medium for keeping their memories alive.

Debbie Cranson, Class Activities, Jim Knowles, Faculty and John Schermerhorn, Boys' Sports, spent many afternoons trying to meet deadlines.

Editor-in-Chief Kris Eklund and Business Manager Bill Bannick combined their talents to edit and finance the yearbook.

Silent moments of intense concentration helped Shelley Cross, Honors, through her editorial problems.

Bill Gleason, Photography, solved many problems for co-workers like Nadine Gitelson and Jane Geary, Senior Pictures.

In General keeps us informed

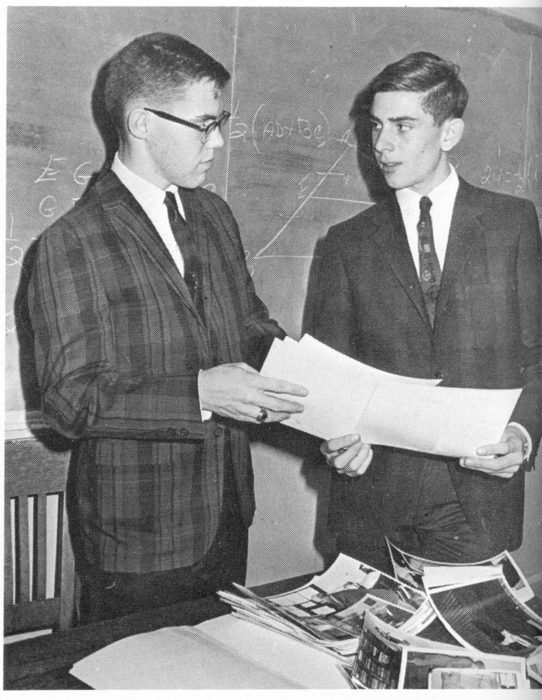

Editors-in-Chief David Glodt, Shaun Harrington, and Colleen O'Gara examine a finished product.

Through the diligent work of the In General's editors, staff, and faculty adviser, Miss Archey, the students of Pittsfield High School have been provided with a comprehensive newspaper. In General first appeared in the fall of 1964, and because of its success it is now published eight times a year.

Each issue includes pictures and articles on current happenings at P.H.S., interviews with teachers and students, letters to the editor, and many other interesting features. The best way we at P.H.S. know to keep informed is to keep In General.

Creative prose, poetry, and art constitute the material found in Pittsfield High's literary magazine, The Student's Pen.

Department editors gather raw material from staff members on the day of each deadline. The goods are then inspected and rough edges smoothed over. Editor-in-Chief Gail Danckert, with assistants, Joe Bernardo and Debbie Butler, then assemble the material to form the finished product. The stamp of approval is given by Mrs. Schlawin, Pen advisor, and the publication is finally ready for marketing.

Business manager Mary Gilson and her staff handle the financial end through advertisements and student subscriptions.

The goal of most manufacturers is a profit. The profit gained by those involved with The Student's Pen is experience, responsibility, and satisfaction with a job well done.

Sketches for the "Who's Who" column are perfected by the art staff: Sue Aldam, Editor Bonnie Lingoski, Sara Rood, and Danny Oltsch.

Mary Gilson, Business Manager, and Gail Danckert, Editor-in-Chief, prepare a lay-out with Mr. Jacobs of the Eagle Printing & Binding Company.

Cheerleaders deserve cheer

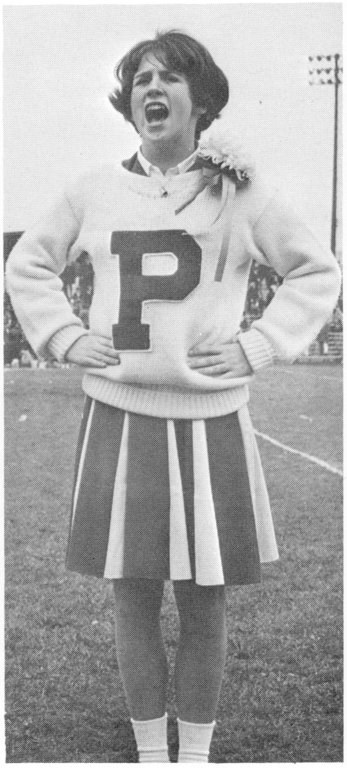

Those who lead our cheers deserve our cheers. Thanks to nine girls, whose zest and pep inspired both teams and spectators, P.H.S. teams won many games.

These cheerleaders, who practiced diligently twice a week, whipped up spirit at our rallies as well as at varsity football and basketball games. In October they taught the art of cheerleading to the juniors trying out for J.V. squad. At the same time they were busy organizing the Rally Dance, held in the Girls' Club Gym on the eve of the St. Joe game.

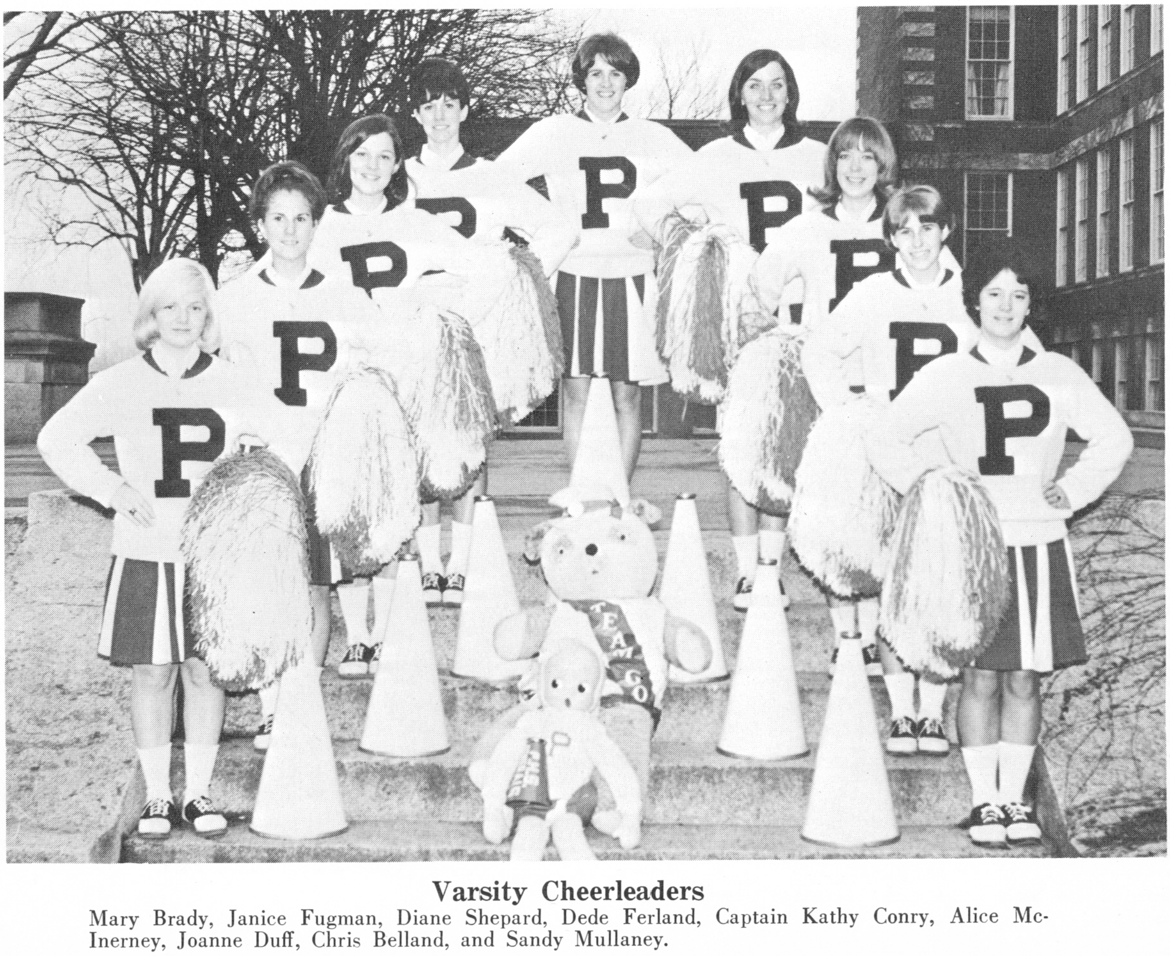

A highlight of the year was the Thanksgiving trip to White Plains, New York, where they cheered at a football game and later dined in New York City.

"Hit that man and hit him hard!" The squad cheers in circle formation at the St. Joe game.

Bright purple and white uniforms, worn by forty-two girls of the junior and senior classes, are a familiar sight drilling at football games, rallies, parades and St. Joe basketball games. These girls, the Cadettes, also perform such services as collecting for charity drives and helping at teachers' conventions and football receptions.

Each year the Cadettes hold a fall fashion show. The money earned is used to send the senior Cadettes to Washington in April and to award a deserving senior Cadette a scholarship.

With the help of "Miss Mac," beloved adviser, the girls have added greatly to school spirit.

Cadettes perform at the Wahconah Regional game at Wahconah Park.

In sharp white blazers the girls execute a precision step before football fans.

Heroes of the P.H.S.

Dancing and playing music at the same time is not easy as band members discover while they do a tricky step, the Elephant Walk.

Revolutionaries prepare for another battle with their instruments during an indoor practice in the P.H.S. music room.

Revolution

Have you heard about the revolution at Pittsfield High School? Drums boomed, horns tooted, batons twirled all over the city—on the mall, at the Common, even at South Junior High. Yes, Mr. Lancia had the members of the band, including the majorettes and the color guard, working two hours after school as many as four times a week.

As a result of the hard work and long hours of practice, P.H.S. has a band to which we can point with pride. In fact, when the band played for us at football games, at parades, and at a splendid spring concert it received a standing ovation.

Most afternoons one can hear a variety of musical sounds issuing from Room 108. The sounds may be from either the Orchestra under Mr. Floyd Lancia, the Choraleers under Mrs. Elsbeth Wayne, or the Dance Band under Dr. Morton Wayne, practicing the music they will play at many school and civic functions.

These three groups have spent much time and effort to bring us the wonderful sound of music.

Pep club inspires spirit

"Generals, Generals are the best!" So begins another rally organized by the P.H.S. Pep Club. Everyone knows that a crowd of lively, cheering students is one of the most important assets to any team. The Pep Club certainly keeps us both lively and cheering.

Under the direction of Miss Tierney, faculty adviser, the officers and members carry out their responsibilities of decorating the auditorium, planning rallies, selling purple and white beanies, and generally boosting morale.

If the amount of spirit demonstrated by a school is indicative of the success of Pep Club, then it will go down in the history of P.H.S. that ours was the best Pep Club ever.

This was a prophetic rally sign.

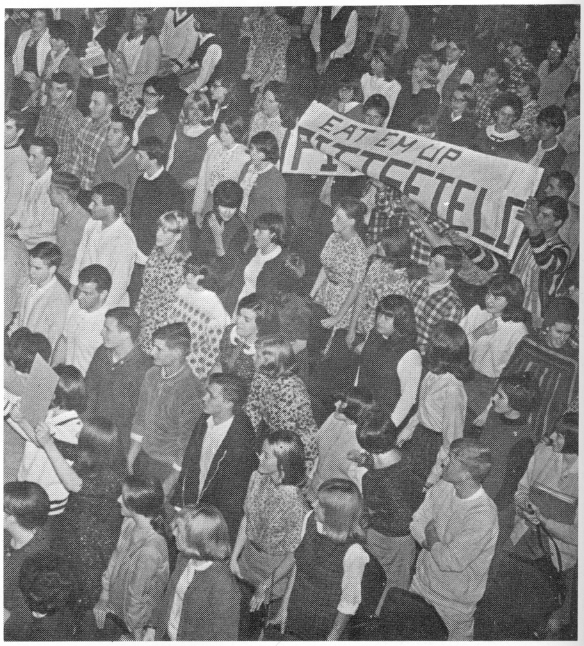

President Jim Albano urges us to support the teams at the games, and Mary Brady is ready to start.

Forensic league for friendly fighters

Cross-questioning each other, Chris Belland and Jim Collyer debate the national question of the year.

"Resolved, that the federal government should adopt a program of compulsory arbitration in labor-management disputes in basic industries." This national topic has been debated all year long in high school debate clubs through-out the country.

The P.H.S. Debate Club is a member of the Berkshire County Forensic League, organized by Pittsfield High's Mr. David Pierce. The league includes fifteen schools which hold inter-scholastic debating tournaments several times during the school year. The contests are judged by the various debate groups, and trophies are awarded to the winning teams. A definite goal—an invitation to the Dartmouth Debate Festival—provides the members with something to work for. Actually no goal is needed; all of Pittsfield High's debaters are, as Mr. Pierce puts it, "addicted" to the sport.

Preparing their case for rebuttal, Paul Rowe and Paula DeCarlo work together.

Art and literary elite join forces

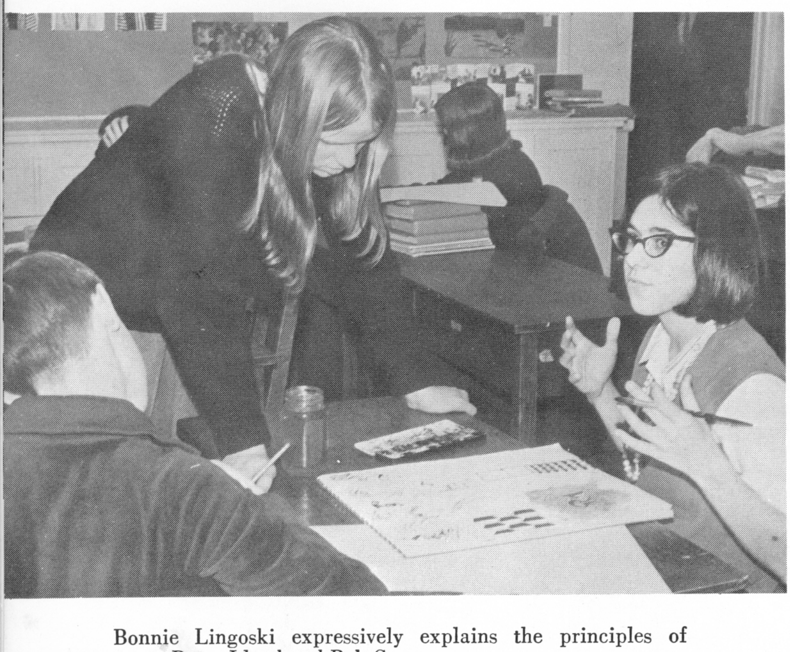

Proof of the interrelationship of art and literature is offered through the P.H.S. Writers and Illustrators Club, supervised by Mrs. Nancy Delaiti and Mrs. Sheila Schlawin.

On Tuesday afternoons interested students meet in the art room, writers on one side and illustrators on the other. The aim is to create a relation between visual and verbal artistic creations motivated by response to a shared experience.

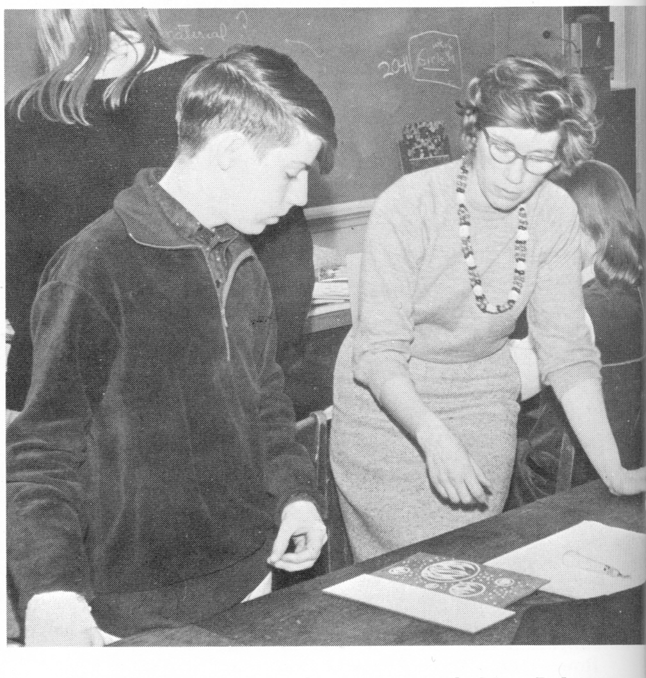

The club has held several exhibitions not only in school but in the Berkshire Athenaeum and, most important of all, in Camenae, a small magazine published by club members.

While this group of writers discuss their work, Mrs. Schlawin is on hand for reference.

Future leaders in business

Though seniors in most P.H.S. curricula turn to the Debate Club, the Student's Pen, and other similar activities, one hundred percent of the students in this year's Distributive Education course joined DECA. Officers of the club are William Sturgeon, President; Donna Greb, Vice-President; Cathy Bartley, Secretary; and Linda Martin, Treasurer.

The DECA members took tours of local retail establishments throughout the senior year. DECA's club activities, such as the selling of candy, a Christmas Coffee Hour for faculty, and an annual state-wide convention in Boston, aim at creating future leaders in marketing and distribution.

Controversy provokes discussion

To keep abreast of the news and to enrich their lives through discussion of contemporary problems, a group of students this year formed the Pittsfield High Current Events Club. Mr. Philip Pomerantz of the Social Studies Department agreed to serve as advisor for the club.

Members discuss such topics as Civil Rights and the conflict in Vietnam. Each student is urged to voice his own ideas. Different interpretations and personal convictions lead to many interesting controversies, but out of their experiences the members gain much broader views.

Areas of discussion take these members around the globe—Cary Ditchner, Don Street, Phil Rosen, Al Rosen, Dave St. James, and their advisor, Mr. Pomerantz.

Curiosity stimulates experimentation

For students with a preference for science, the P.H.S. Science Club has a great deal to offer. Members divide into three groups according to their interest: biology, chemistry or physics.

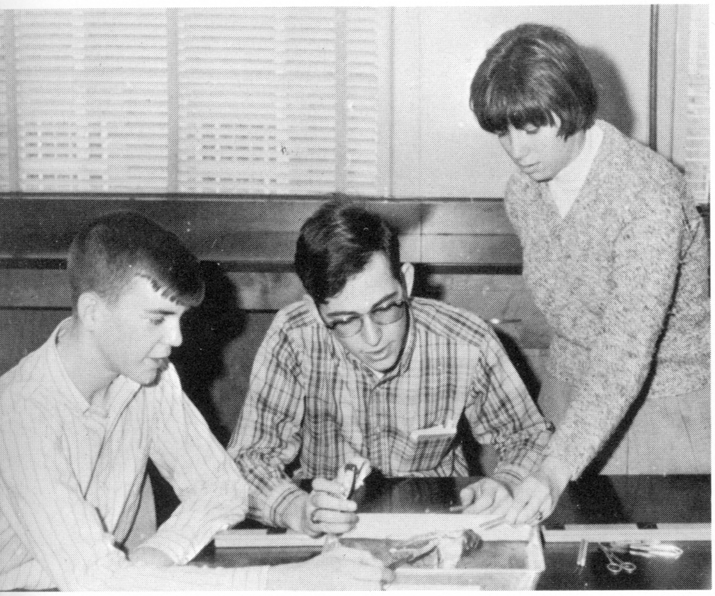

Club advisors are Mr. Edward Daly and Mr. Edward Blagdon; however, they try to let the club run itself as much as possible.

A committee was appointed to provide a speaker from time to time on a pertinent subject.

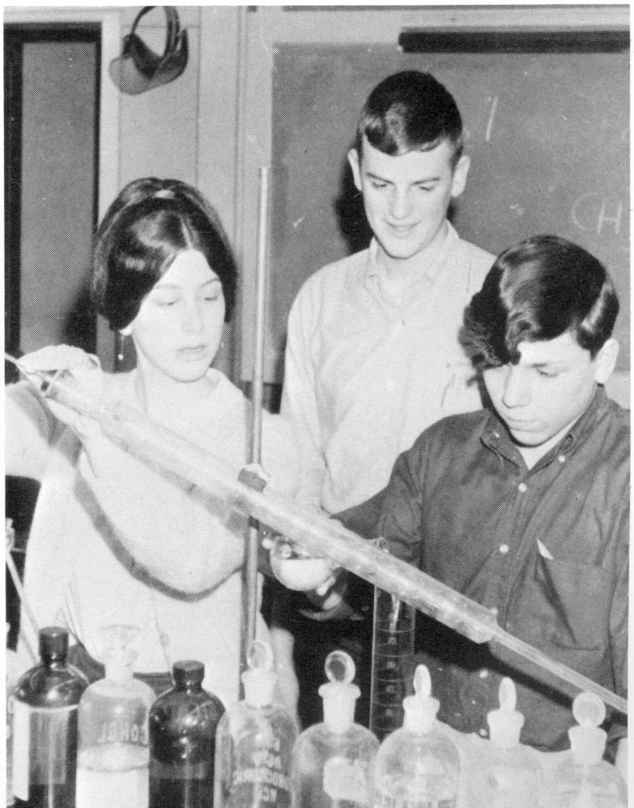

This active organization offers the opportunity for scientificially-minded students to meet people of their own interests and to reach further into the study of science than they can in the classroom.

The officers head a business meeting: Vice-President Morris Kopels, Treasurer Shelley Cross, Secretary Jane Sammons, and President Tom Kraay.

Biology enthusiasts James Collyer, Phil Rosen, and Roslyn Rudnick, perform this dissection of a frog.

Using this appartus, Doreen Gluckin, Glenn Kelly and Gary Pane work a difficult chemical reaction.

Does anyone have a problem?

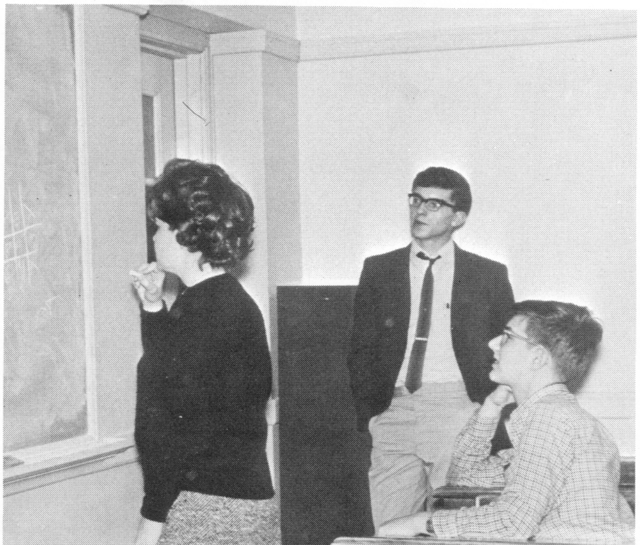

Probability, infinity, finite math—these were the problems which the members of the Math Club discussed during the year.

The purpose of the club is to stimulate interest in the widening fields of mathematics. With the assistance of Mr. William Broderick the students prepared lectures which they presented to the other members at the club meetings.

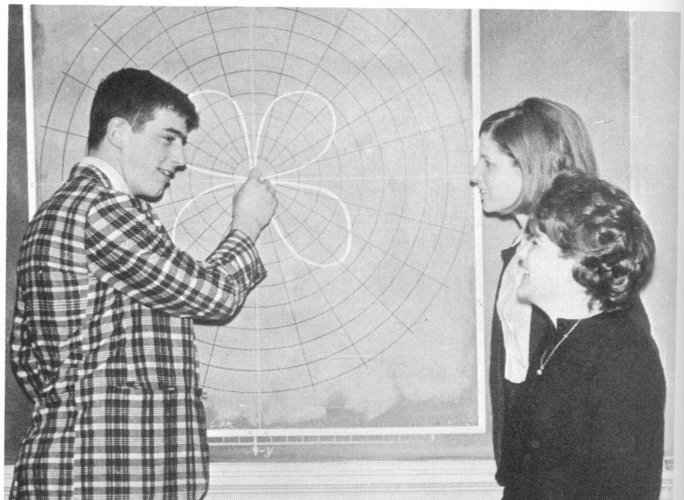

These math enthusiasts did not think of their club as just another class, but rather as an informal gathering of people who enjoy mathematics.

JETS gear for engineering

JETS, an abbreviation for Junior Engineering Technical Society, is a club for boys who plan engineering or technical careers.

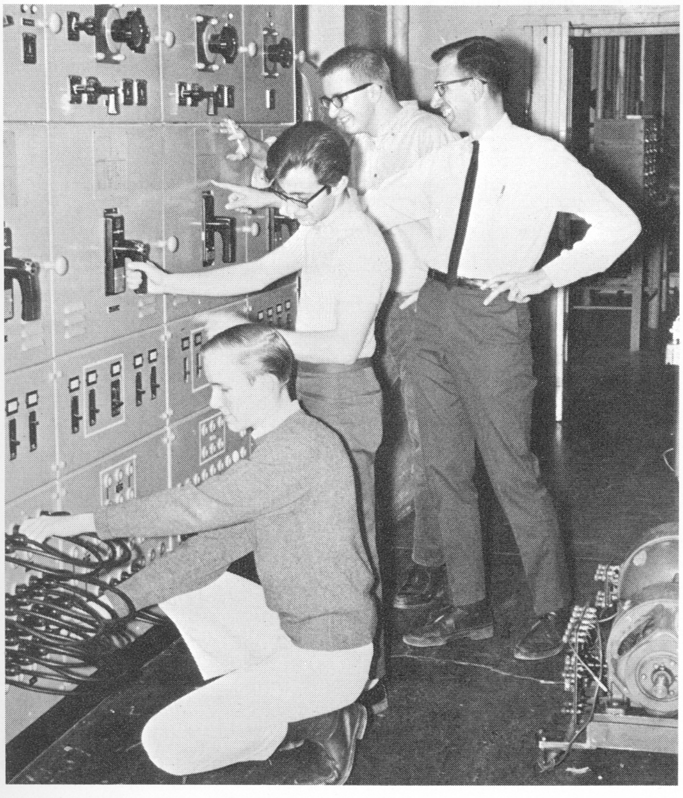

Although certain courses which are found only in the special Technical curriculum are a requirement for officers, the club is open to students in all other curricula as well. Most members of JETS do go on to technical colleges after graduation.

In addition to bi-weekly meetings, the members made two field trips—one to the World's Fair and one to the G.E. Power Transformer Department. Three delegates attended the Northeastern JETS Seminar at Brooklyn Polytechnical Institute where they displayed and spoke on their special projects.

Highlighting the year was the dinner in June at which officers of the coming year were elected.

What is the most successful organization at P.H.S.? The Girls' Athletic Association, of course! The success of GAA is due to the many social as well as athletic activities offered. There is something for every girl in G.A.A.

This year the board and officers, under Miss Helen McNaughton, planned a busy program. Several events which everyone enjoyed were the pizza party, the splash party and the ski night. The Sweetheart Dance on February 12 was a great success.

The final event of the year was the GAA Banquet. During the evening, officers and board members were announced for the following year, and honor pins were awarded to outstanding participants in the GAA activities for the year.

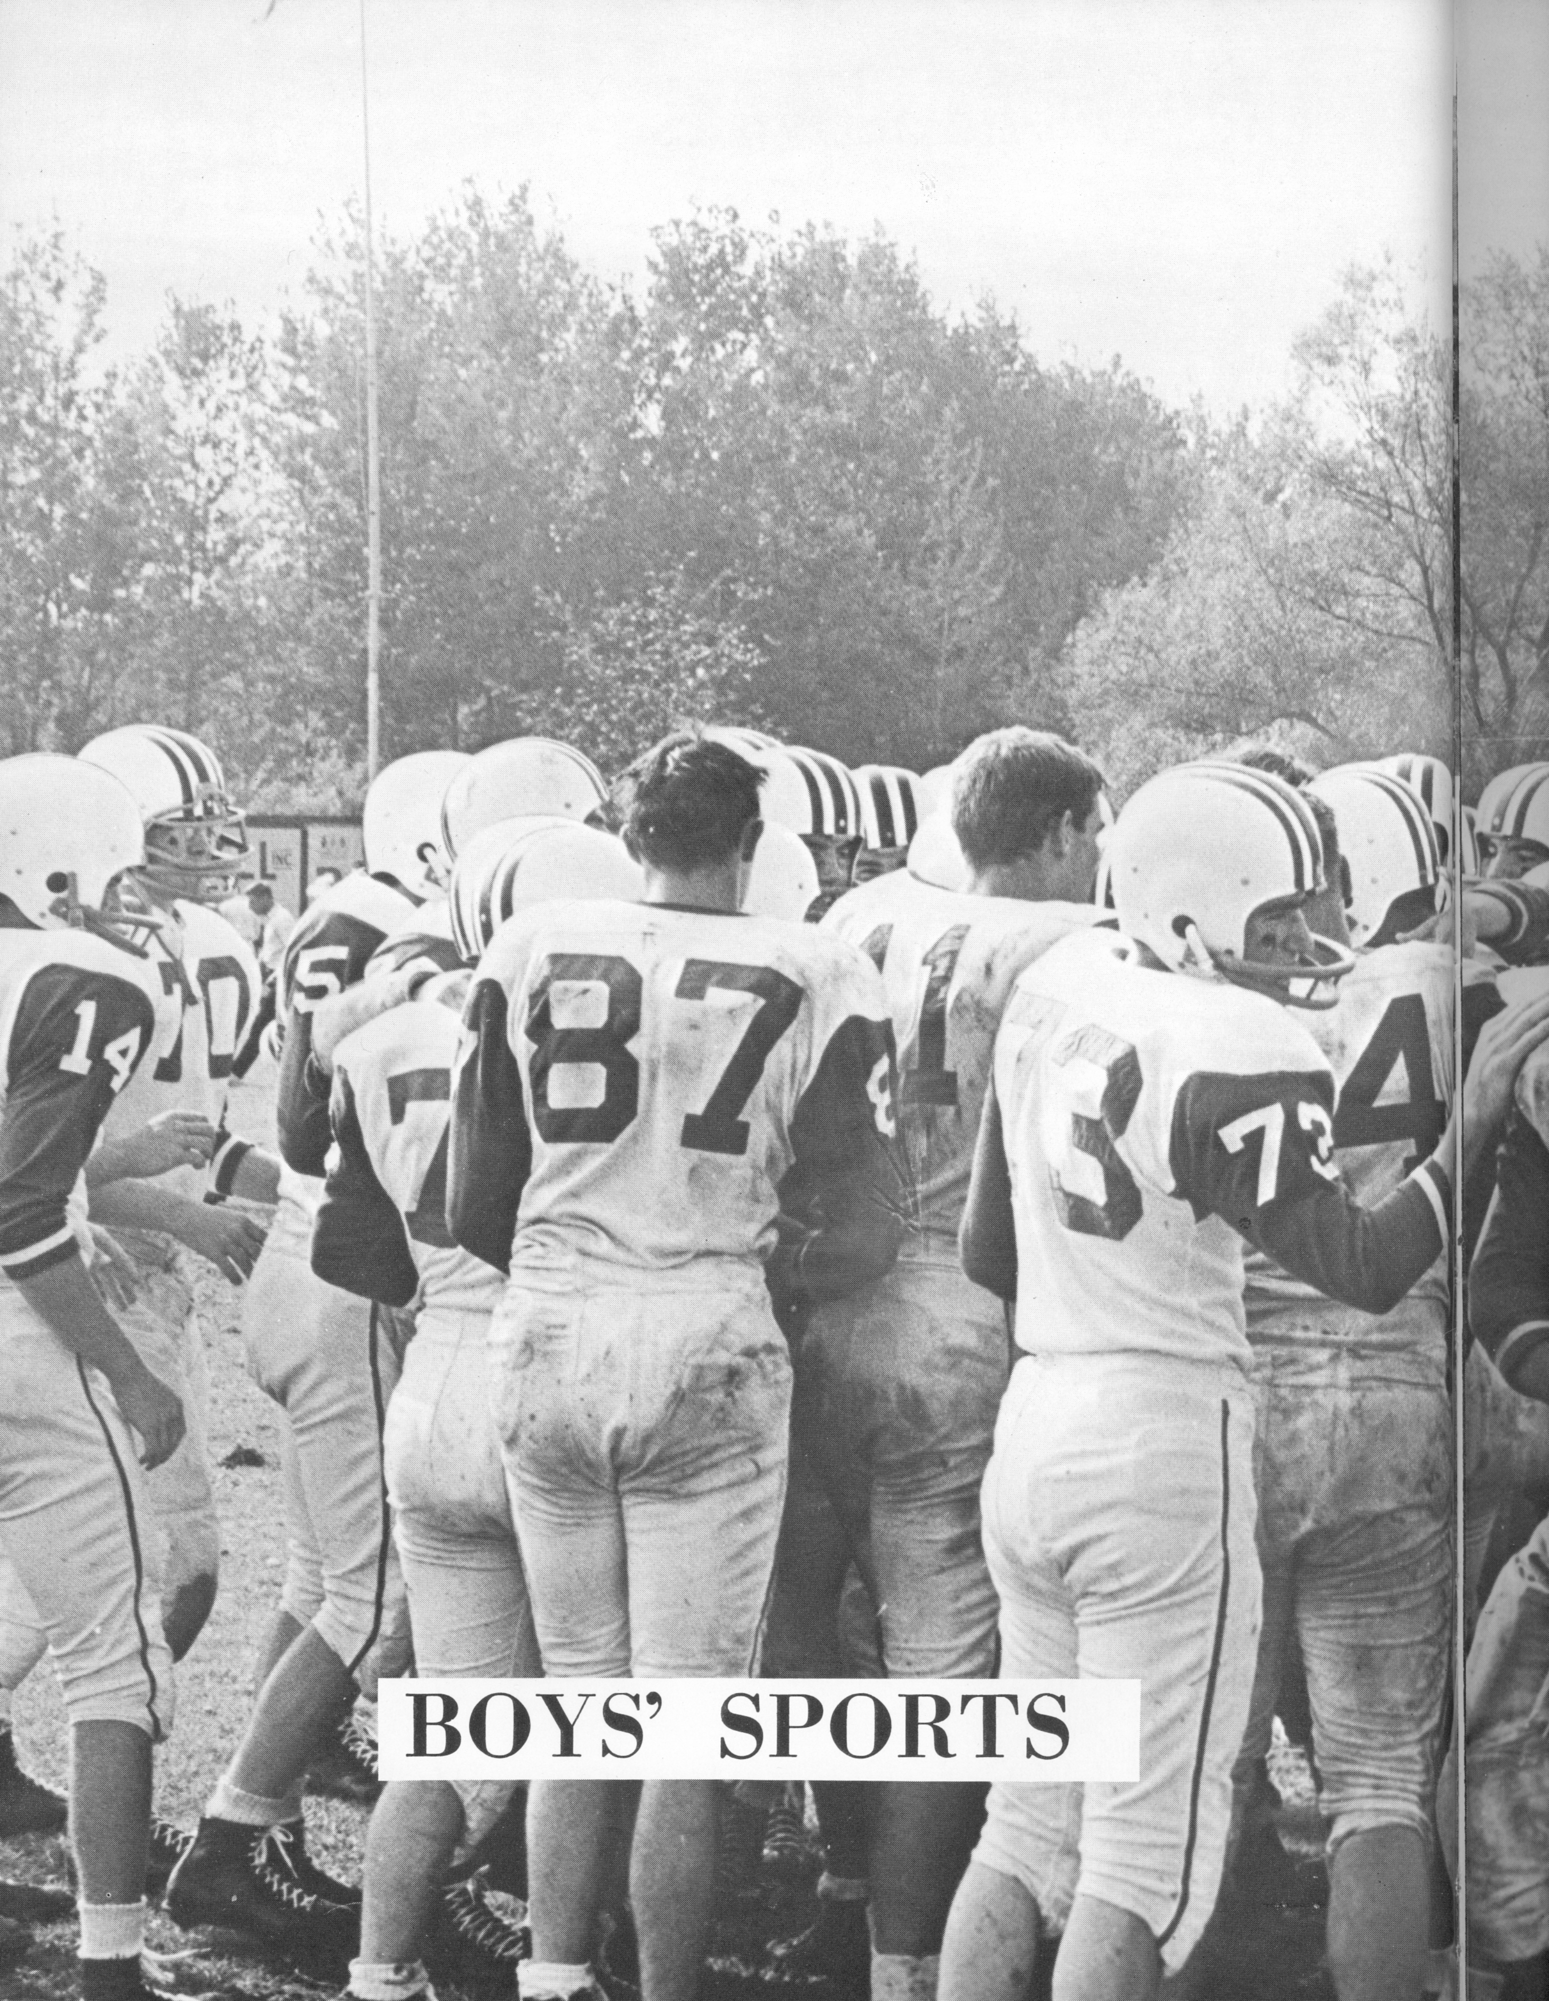

The candlelight ceremony symbolized the hope of every member—that GAA next year would be just as successful as 1965–1966 had been.

BOYS' SPORTS

Generals capture city title

For the first time in three years, the St. Joseph's Crusaders met defeat at the hands of a revengeful P. H. S. football team. This annual "grudge contest" was the highlight of a successful season. The Generals' eleven not only achieved a 7-2 record but tied Wahconah for first place in the Western Massachusetts Class A Conference. A loss to Drury was the squad's only setback in regional competition, while the Thanksgiving Day battle with the powerful White Plains team proved to be the only non-conference defeat.

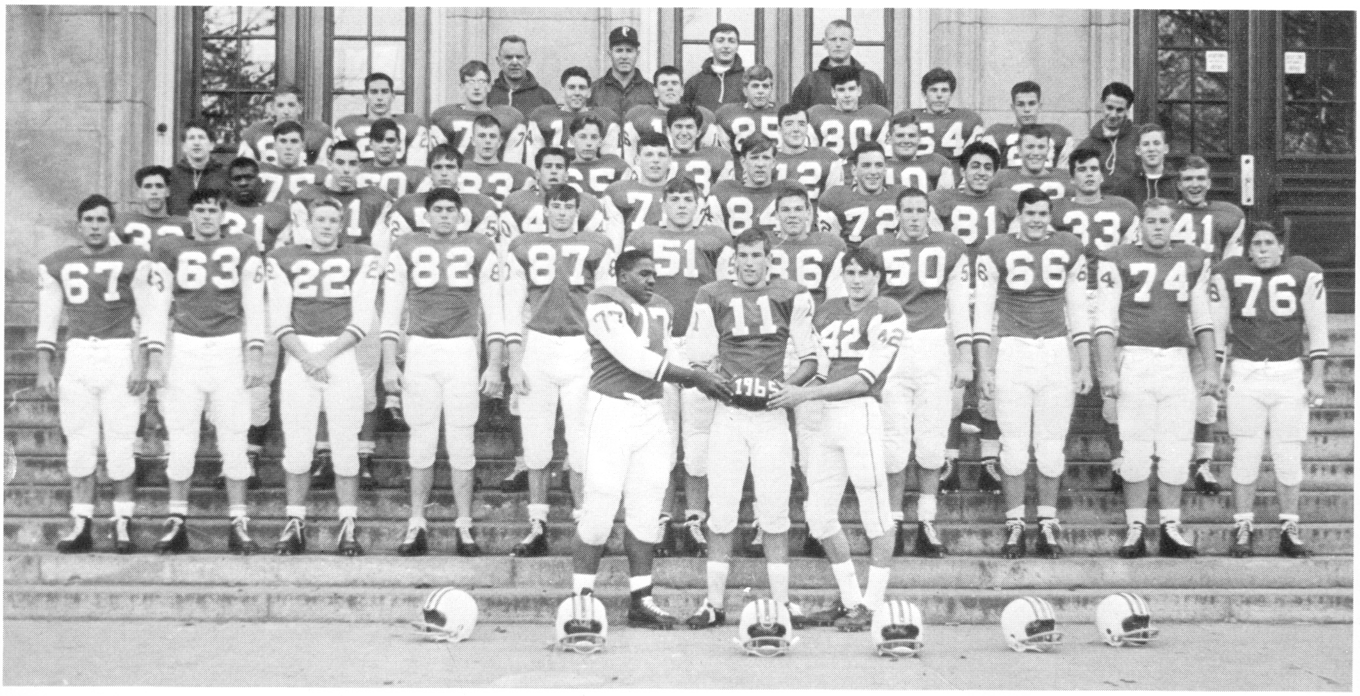

Leading the gridiron squad were such exceptional players as All-Berkshire selectees: quarterback Tom Grieve, full-back Jim Whitfield, half-back Tony Gibson, end Pete Vacchina, and linemen Charley Tiblom and Bruce Robertson. In mid-season the team was handicapped by the loss of versatile Mitch Massaconi, ace line-backer and wingback, who suffered a concussion in the Drury game.

The credit for an outstanding season must be given not only to these stars, but also to the other fine players whose individual efforts combined to make a champion team.

Improvement evident as soccer team

Coach Gionet discusses strategy with Co-Captains Charley Goodrich and Jim Garstang.

Pittsfield High's second year varsity soccer team returned to the playing field this fall with ten veterans, twenty-four rookies, and a past record of one win and six losses. The General booters, coached by Ralph Gionet, played their home games on the Egremont School Field, the largest in the newly formed Northern Berkshire Soccer League.

Silvano Mastrodicasa and Tom Kirk, with five and six goals respectively, were two of the league's leading scorers. Coupled with the agility of Co-Captains Charley Goodrich and Jim Garstang, they sparked the team to four league victories and several non-league wins as well. Goalies Mike Smith and Gene Kraay, supported by a rugged defensive unit, held their opponents to a mere five-goal tally for the entire season.

Generals win at Peekskill,

This year the P.H.S. basketball team journeyed out-of-state to participate in a tournament. At Peekskill, New York, the Generals, paced by the tourney's most valuable player, Mark Farrell, played two impressive ball games. They trounced both the Spring Valley club and the favored Peekskill High to win the tournament with a great show of talent and teamwork.

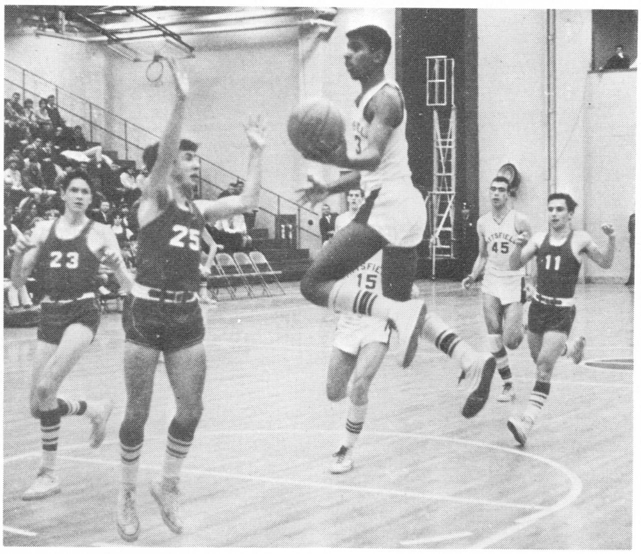

In other pre-season games Pittsfield defeated Springfield Tech twice for the first time since the two teams began playing each other.

After such a forceful and auspicious beginning, the Generals inexplicably lapsed into a four game losing streak. During this dark hour starters Tom Grieve and Dave Sturma were both injured. P.H.S. came roaring back, however, in the latter-half of the season to win five out of six games and finish in third place.

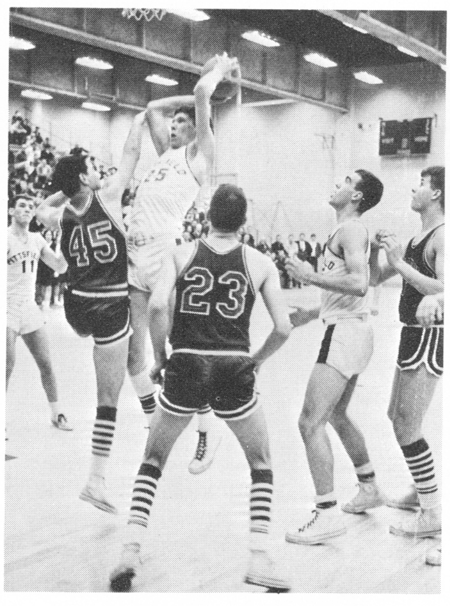

Having recovered from this discouraging slump, Pittsfield sparked by a much improved Alex Borelli, evened the city series by romping over St. Joe by a 17-point margin. This was the widest margin in the history of this rivalry. Although the Generals did not qualify for the Western Mass. Tournament, they completed the season with a 14-6 record.

Skiers take sixth straight

The Pittsfield ski team performed commendably this season despite many discouraging setbacks. Poor ski conditions resulted in seven cancellations, while a last-place standing in a tri-school jumping meet made prospects for a successful year seem dismal. But the team, spurred on by Rudy Benedetti's exceptional coaching ability and infectious will-to-win, overcame these handicaps by capturing the Berkshire Interscholastic title for the sixth consecutive season. Outstanding in this event were Shaun Tucker and Co-Captain Charles Goodrich. Tucker clinched the title for Pittsfield by winning first-place in the jumping event, while Goodrich was awarded his third Skimeister award in recognition of his consistently excellent performances.

P.H.S. hot in Fay Division

Competing for the first time in the Fay Division, the P.H.S. sextet captured a second-place standing and an invitation to face-off in the Western Mass. Hockey Tournament. After losing their first two games, the puckmen bounded back to end the season with a fine 10-3-3 record. Leading Pittsfield's attack were Paul Vacchina, the highest scorer in Western Mass. with 26 goals and 14 assists totaling 44 points; center, Tom Hannigan; and Bob Fitzgerald, a sophomore who led the team with 24 assists. Reinforcing this first line of offense were Peter Vacchina and Mike Caritey, who along with goalie, Mike Hess, formed an excellent defense which allowed opponents a mere two points a game. Pittsfield's own scoring can be attributed to the fact that these first five players were among the top ten scorers in the Fay Division.

Matmen impressive at Western Mass.

Wrestling has become one of the most popular, scientific, and exciting new sports at Pittsfield High, because it enables each boy to battle an opponent of equal weight. Mismatches cannot occur.

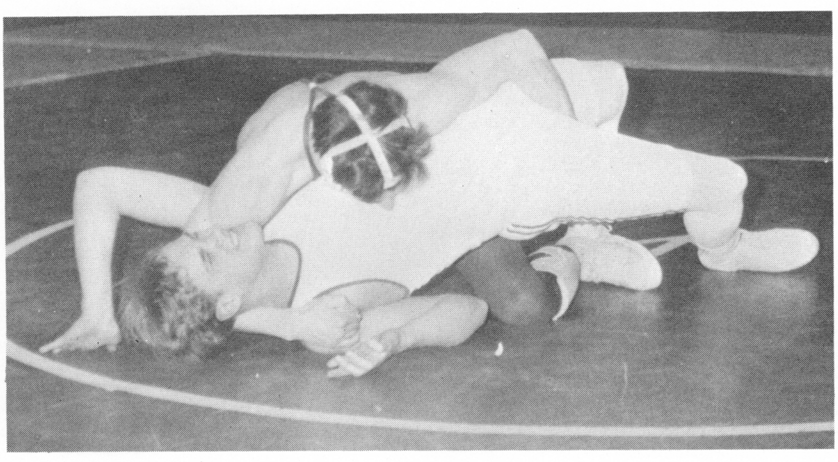

Piloted by Coach George Sylvester, the P.H.S. grapplers, only in their second year of mat combat, managed to wrestle the toughest teams in Western Mass. and still compile a 2-5-1 record.

At the Western Mass. Tournament, the club took fourth place, while stand-outs Bob Martin and Cliff Perkins took first and Bill Choquette second in their respective divisions. Martin and Perkins reached the semi-finals of the State Tournament, and in the finals Perkins placed fourth.

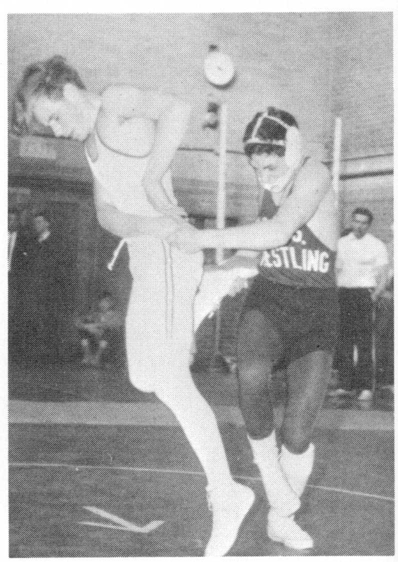

A club activity this year, wrestling will be recognized as a varsity sport next season.

After-school athletics accelerated

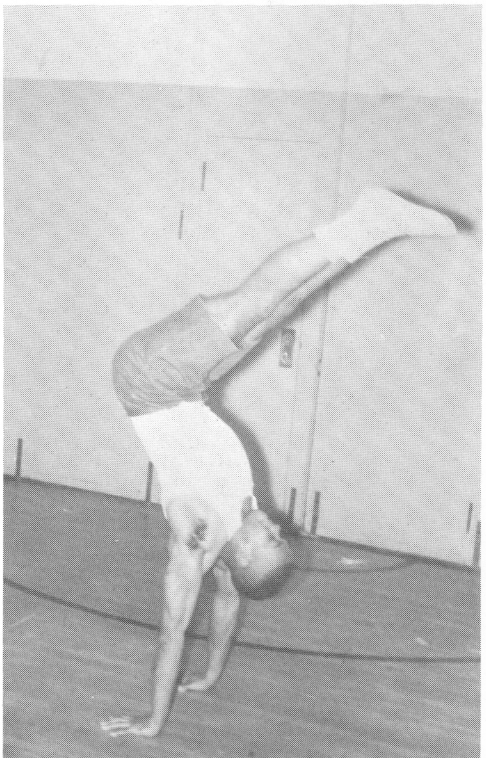

The intramural athletic action moved at a fast pace during the 1965-66 season. Many boys displayed ability, coordination, agility, and a highly competitive spirit in their respective sports. Football, volleyball, soccer, basketball, softball, gymnastics, and wrestling filled the intramural schedule from late September to early June. Thanks to the efforts of Coach Benedetti and Coach Sylvester, the intramural program of 1966 was greatly expanded to provide more athletic enjoyment for a greater number of students.

The contest, open to high school seniors, was sponsored by the U.N. Association and the United World Federalists and was held in conjunction with United Nations Day. Bob and Carolyn received U.S. Savings Bonds for their achievement.

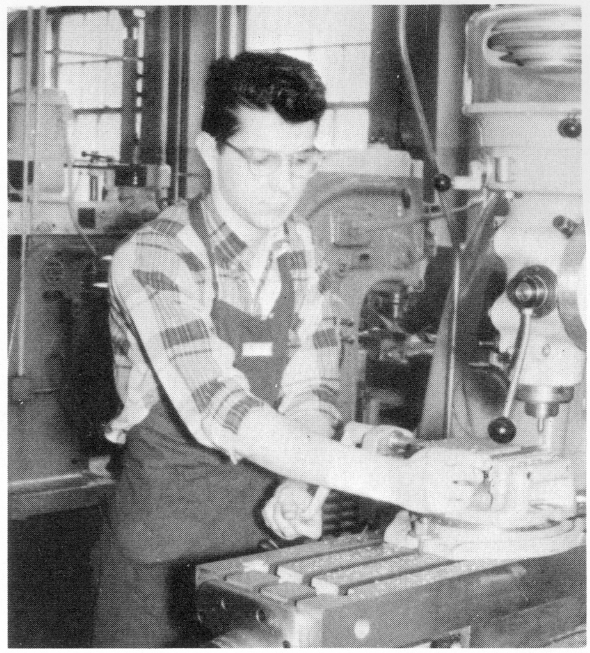

At the annual dinner given by the Monday Morning Quarterback Club, Tom Grieve (right) received the Speck O'Boyle Award as the most valuable player in the P.H.S.—St. Joe football game. A special trophy for his outstanding contribution to the P.H.S. football team was awarded to Mitch Massaconi (left).

William Gleason, photographer for the Dome, Young Berkshire, and In General, receives a gold key and certificate for a scholarship nomination from Samuel S. Rogers of the Boston Globe. In the Scholastic Contest, Bill won the Massachusetts' award for a portfolio of twelve pictures, which were also submitted for national judging.

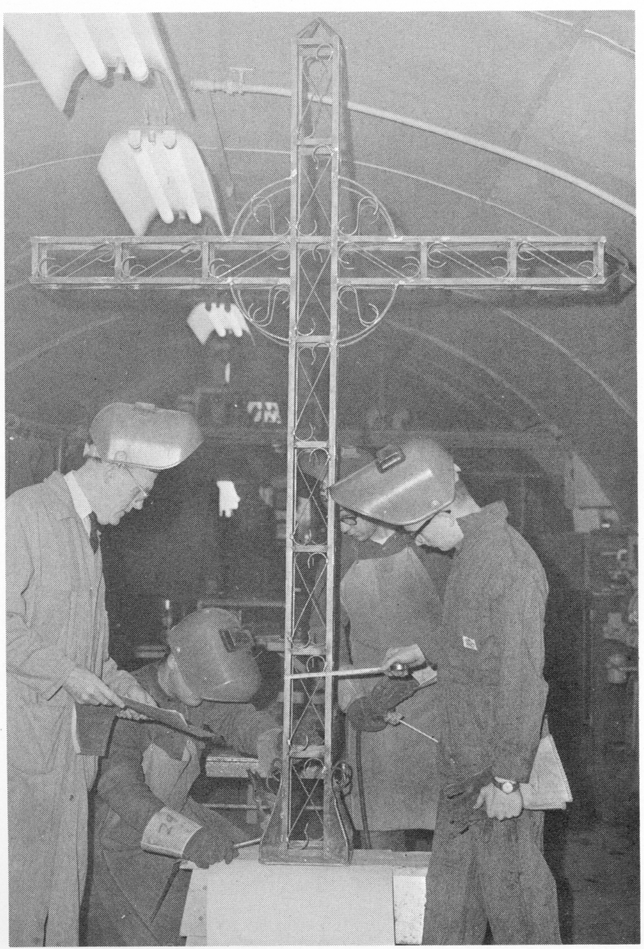

Walter Martin and Peter Ochs are seniors in the Pittsfield Vocational Printing Shop which received the Curtis Paper award for outstanding skill and craftmanship in the field of Graphic Arts. The award, one of three national ones, was given for the design of Open-House invitations.

David Phillippe's Machine Shop project was selected to represent Vocational Education in Massachusetts at the World's Fair. Dave's indexing-head work driver was selected as one of the twelve winning exhibits in the national contest and was placed on exhibition at the National Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago.

Awards to top Vocational students

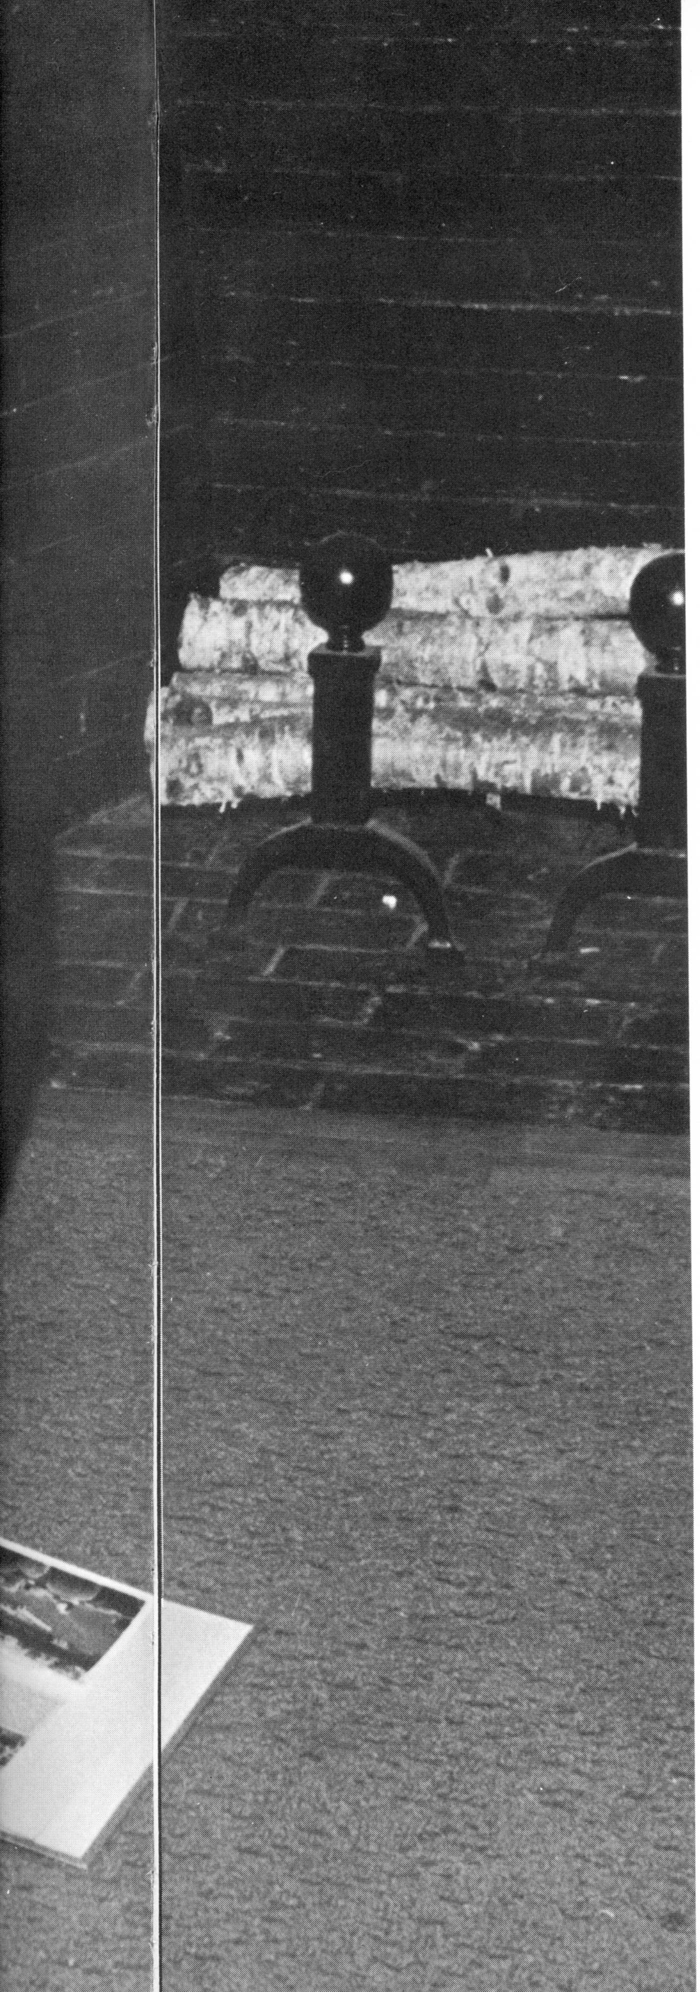

This year, Donna Cook, a three-year-student in Home Economics, received the Proctor & Gamble Award given to the girl who has shown the most interest and has maintained the highest average in Home Economics.

William Furey (right foreground), a P.H.S. Vocational student, shared a $575.00 award for his part in the building of an eight-foot cross for St. Mark's Church in Pittsfield. The contest was sponsored by the James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation of Cleveland, Ohio.

REFLECTIONS

...sharing memories

Scenes from here . . .

You will find
I can remember scenes
From here and there,
Of this or that—
But mostly
All is hazy—
A swimming blur of colors,
Lines and shapes.
That change
Each time
I think of them—
But the sounds
And feelings,
Smells, sights
Of these things
Are what remain
The clearest—
So let me follow
The memories of my senses
And recall . . .

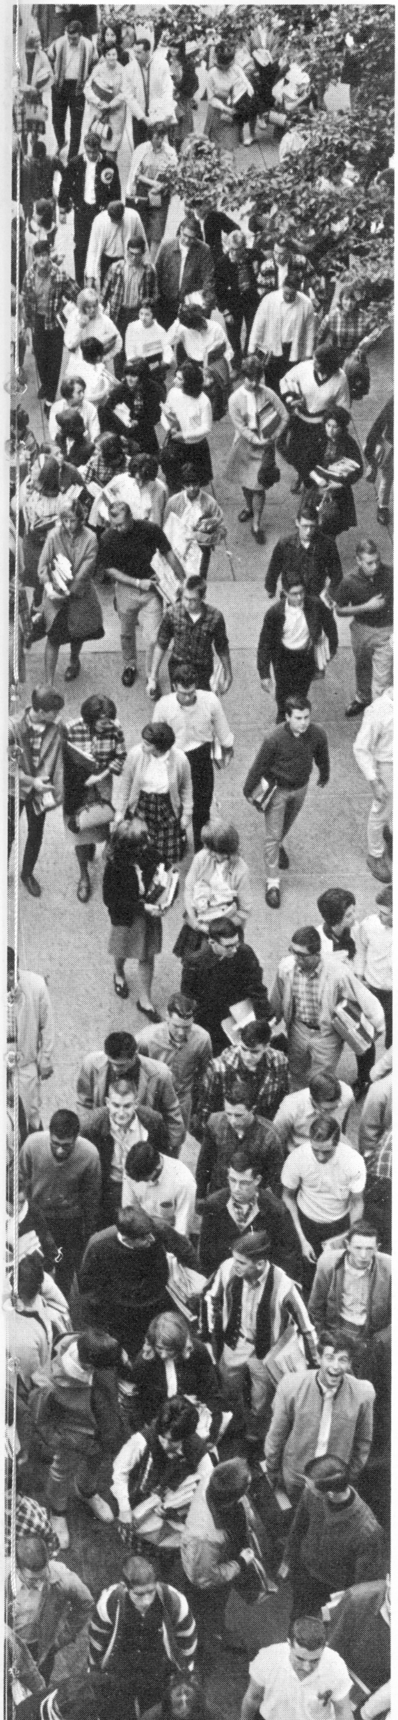

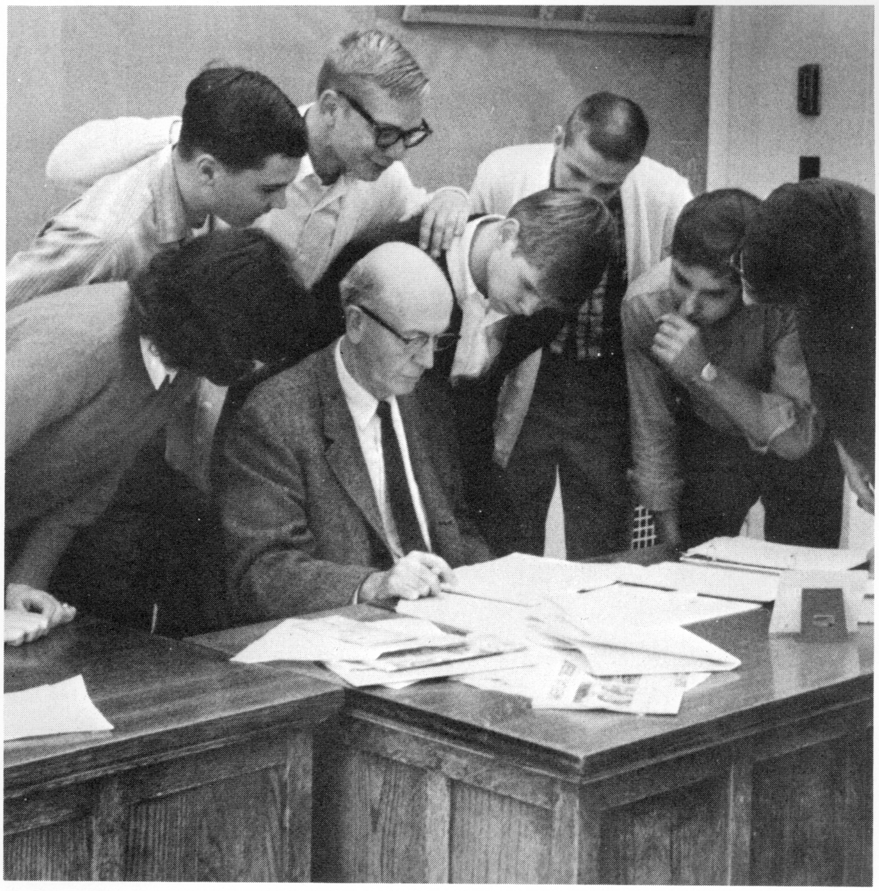

Jim Scace, Anne Kusik, Doreen Brouchard and Alan Chapman have gone mod.

John Nelson welcomes a familiar drop-in.

and there . . .

Mr. Carey's mark book becomes the center of attention.

The Friendly on North Street is always crowded after school.

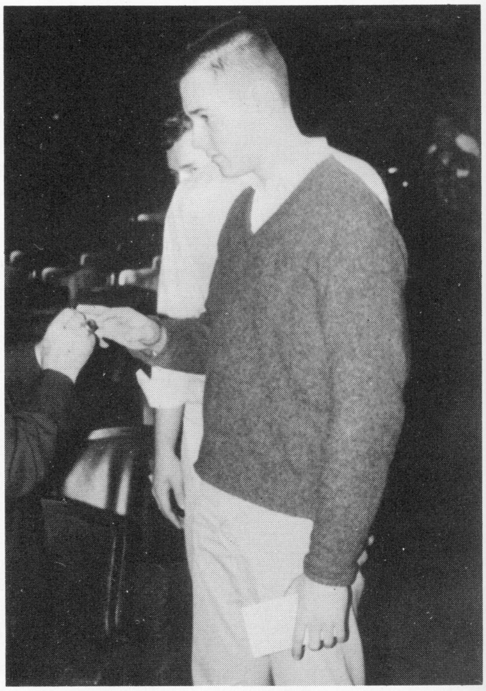

But mostly it's the feeling

Peter Spina, Jim Albano, and Stan Graves count the money for class rings.

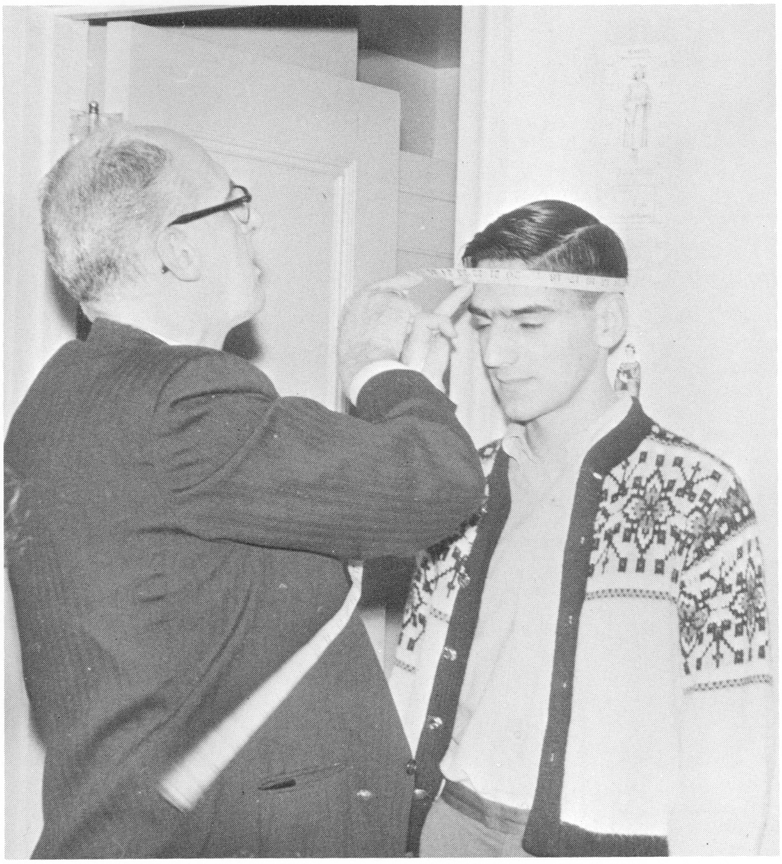

Kris Eklund receives her ballot.

Getting the right ring size is important to Mike Brickley.

I remember . . .

Dick Cetti is measured for cap and gown.

Stomach knots
Before report cards—
Indecision of elections—
The thud of bumping shoulders
In the halls—
Clacking, hollow sound
Of hallways after school—
Assurance of graduation
When I'm measured
For my cap—
Mysterious assemblies,
The flash and pride
Of new rings—
That relieved feeling
When the teacher's out,
The prayers
That I won't get
A late slip—
And the grateful sigh—
"Another Friday's here again."

Sorting In General are Mark Mitchell and Peter Spina.

That joyous feeling

Dick Joseph and Coach Joseph Gleason contemplate the next move.

when we've won . . .

Our team leaves for the Peekskill Tournament.

The voice of the bleachers—
Screaming, roaring
At the field
Of tangled players,
And the sharp air,
And the smell
Of torn-up earth—
Cool soda
For a hoarse, dry throat—
The ecstasy of a touchdown
And stinging palms
From clapping
Hard and long—
Blatt of horns
And purple-white confetti
Fluttering to the ground—
The happy grins
On players' smudgy faces—
That joyous feeling
When we've won the game . . .

Mary Jane Boardman and Pete Vacchina share a happy moment.

We'll have these

The swish of silk and satin
Drifting over the stage—
Stir of controversy
When Senator Kennedy was here—
The cold hands
And shaky knees
Before the show goes on—
That stirrup-rubbing
Guitar sound—
Washboards and kazoos,
And Dylan moods
And music—
The unity of appreciation
Of a satisfied audience . . .
You will find
I can recall some scenes
From here and there,
Of this or that—
But mostly it's the feeling
I remember.

An Emporium Jugster strums his washboard at the Hootenany.

P.H.S. displays its poise and beauty at the Cadette Fashion Show.

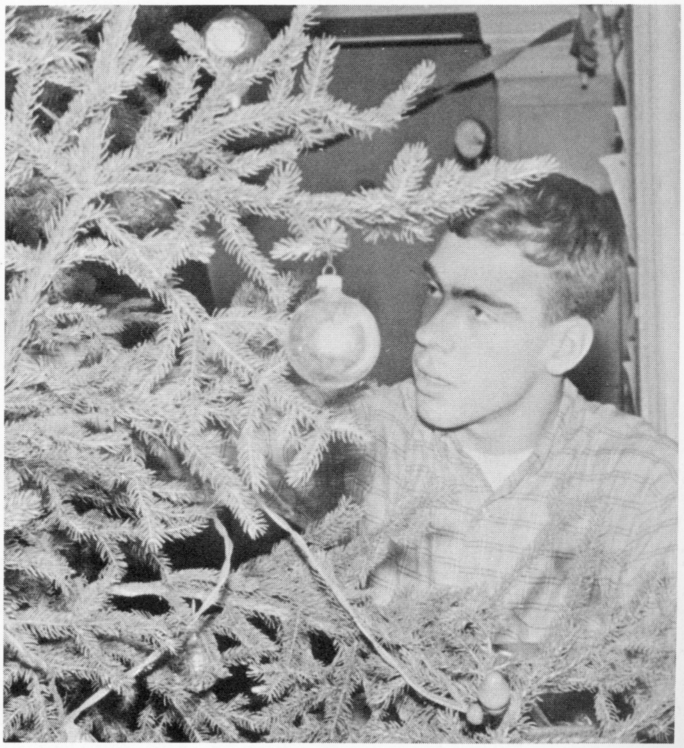

moments to remember

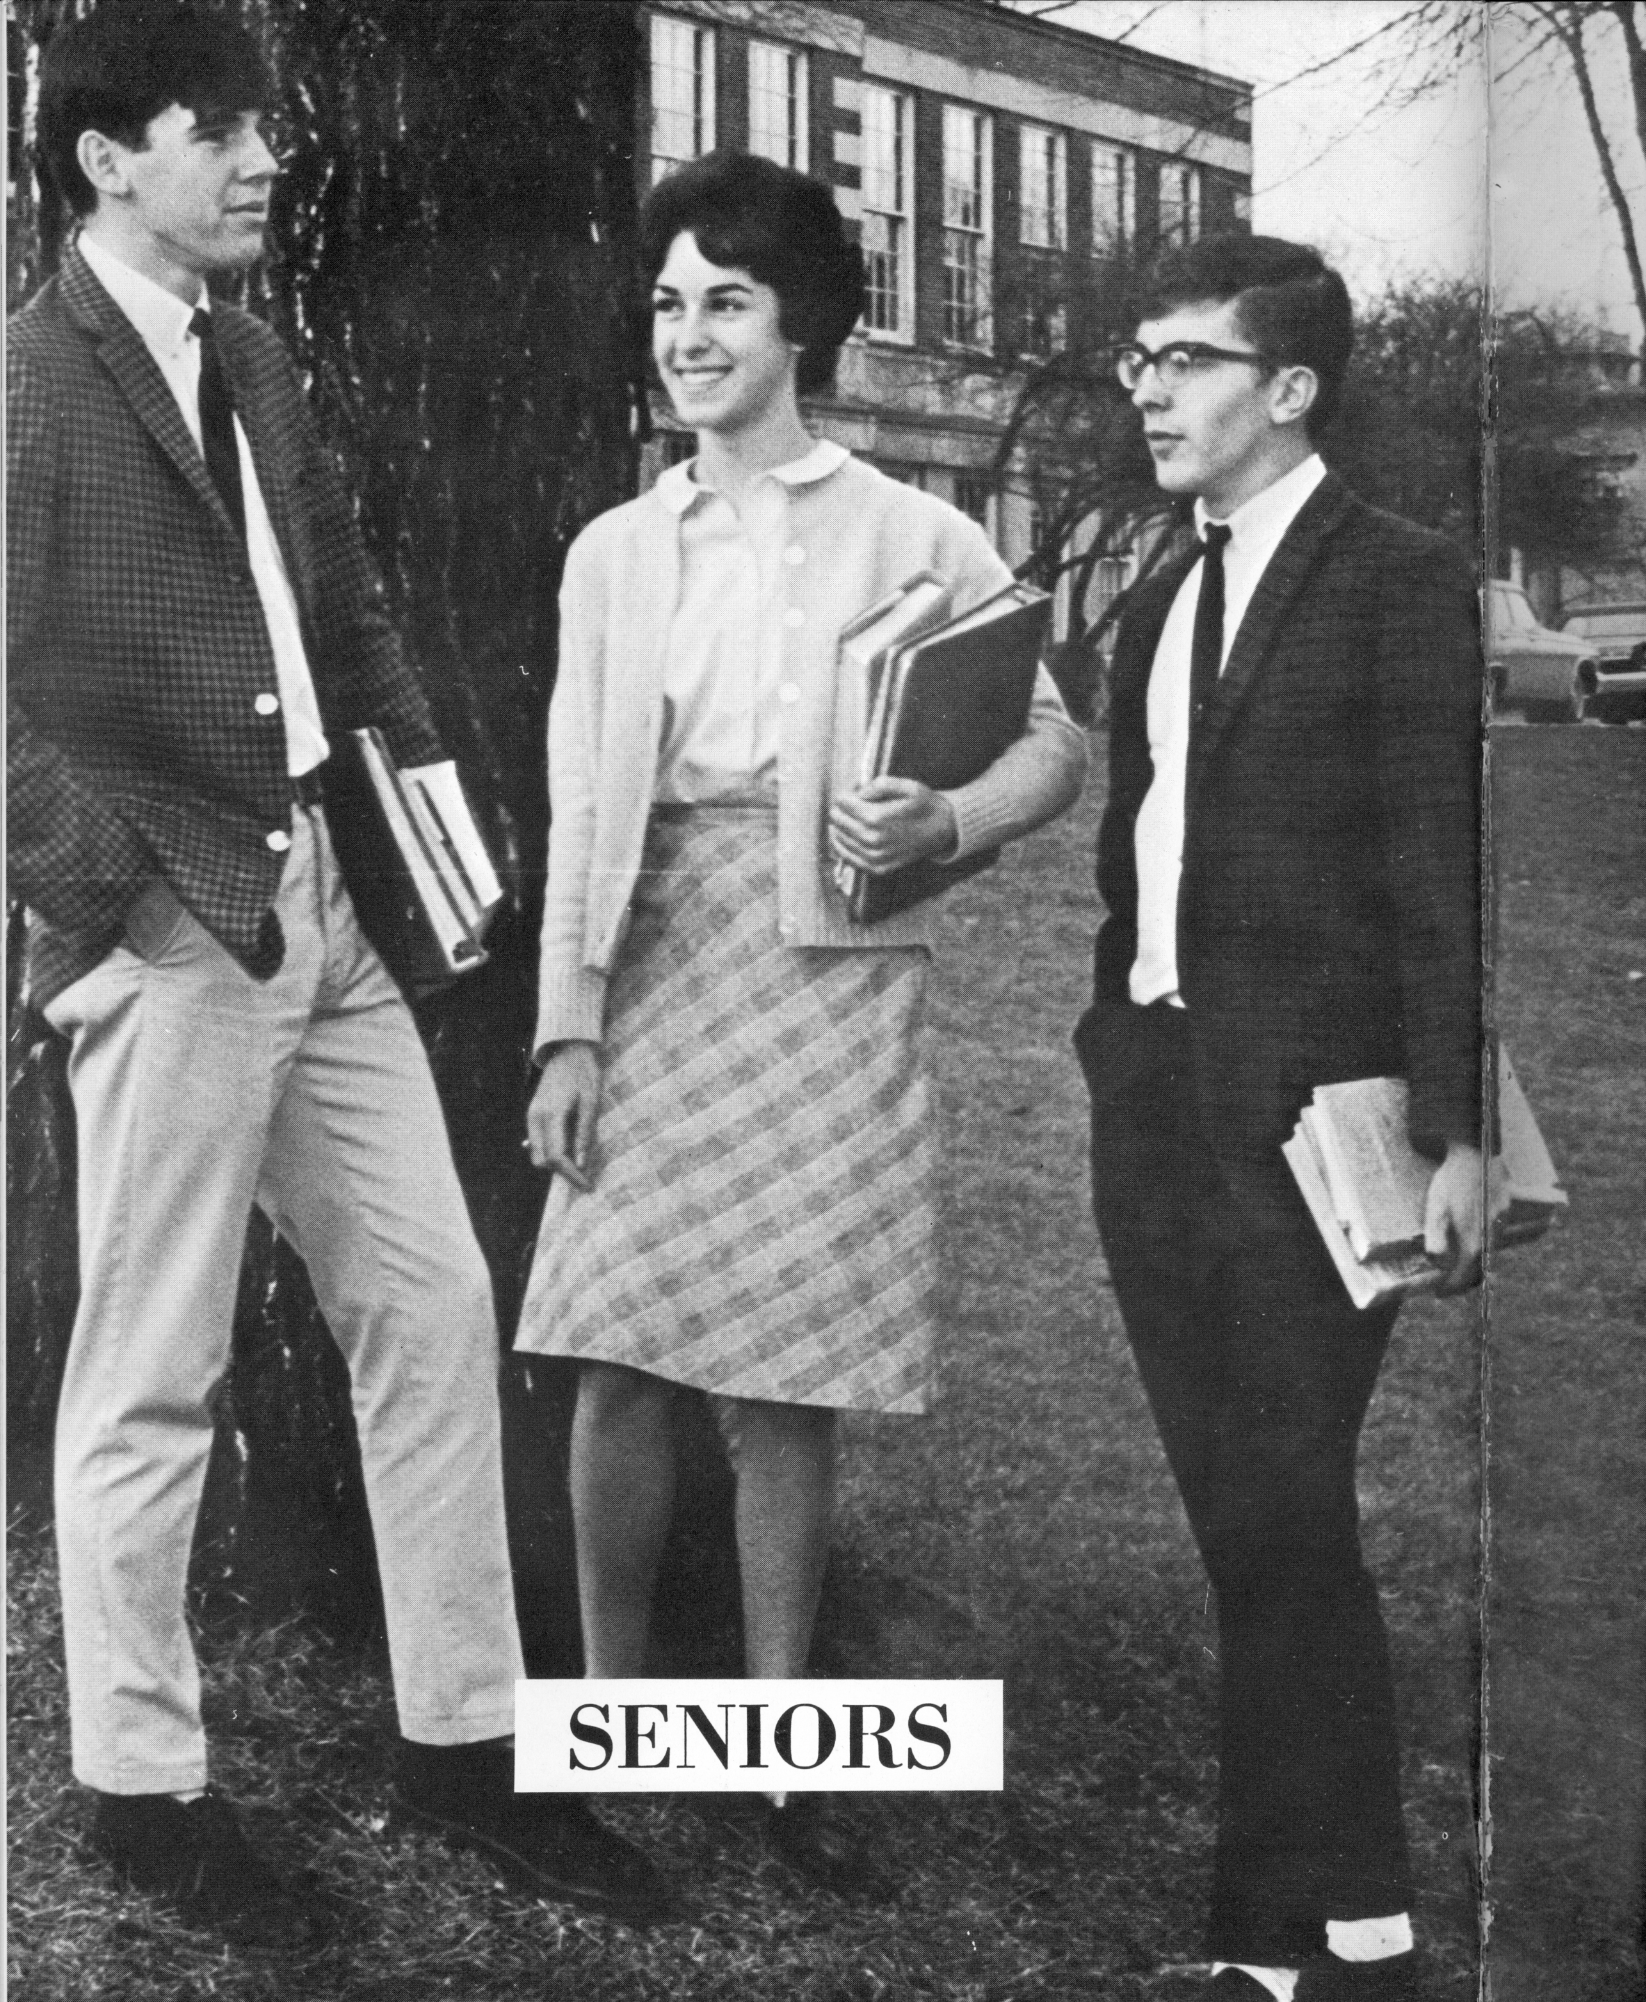

Angelic harmony floats heavenward from Kathy Conry, Debbie Butler, Mary Jane Boardman and Carole Selin.

During his visit, Senator Edward Kennedy poses with Mr. Hennessy.

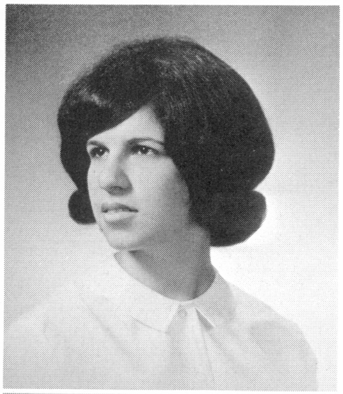

Mike Smith gazes into the Christmas ball.

In Appreciation

The staff of the 1966 Dome would like to express its sincere appreciation to all those who have helped in the publication of this yearbook. We would especially like to thank the following people:

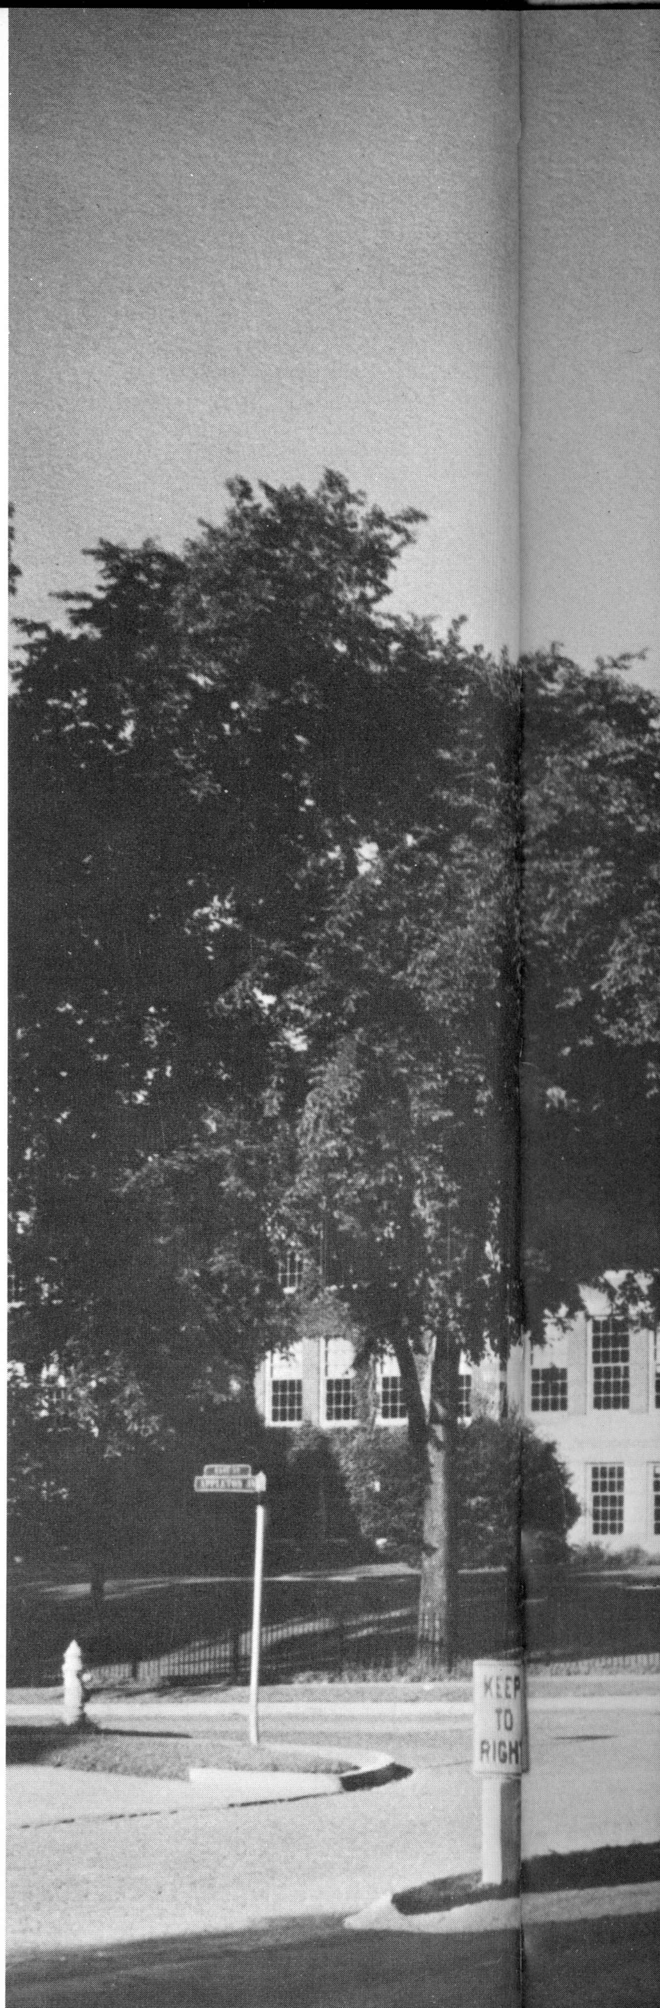

The Misses Elizabeth Enright, Lauretta Guiltinan, Rosemary Haylon, and Mrs. Patricia O'Leary—for their patient guidance as our advisors.

Mr. Eugene Mitchell for his assistance in the photography.

Mr. Joel Librizzi and the Berkshire Eagle for the photographs which they provided for our use.

Mr. J. Arthur Flynn of the O'Toole Publishing Company for his helpful advice.

Our advertisers for the financial assistance which made this publication possible.

LETTERS MAKE YOUR WORLD GO ROUND

You like to get letters. Everyone does. And familiar handwriting on the envelope makes you eager to open it. You want to know how Jane is enjoying her trip to the Coast, that was her graduation present. Or how George is doing in his new job.

Letters make your world go round and round. The more letters you write, the more you will get. So it is good to keep your hand in practice.

Good paper makes this practice a pleasure. Its fine texture invites pen or typewriter. Words flow with the ease of conversation. And its handsome appearance reflects your good taste.

In Crane's Fine Papers this pleasure and good taste are happily combined.
